Anti-Soviet Plot Denied by Quinn; Hoover Is Silent

Secretary of Commerce
Refuses To Dignify Secret Pact Charge by Denying It.

CAPTAIN MARTIN HAS
DELUSION, SAYS QUINN

Director of American Relief Body Declares Mar-tiner Had Little War All
His Own.

BY E. B. MACDONALD.
Washington, April 1.—Charges that the United States government, acting through the American relief administration, materially aided the Kulebak-Denkik-Yudenitch revolt against the soviet government in 1919, are wholly without foundation, Cyril J. Quinn, formerly shipping manager of the A. R. A., told the United News Tuesday.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, head of the relief in 1919, refused to dignify the charges with a denial, saying "they are too ridiculous to answer."

Delivers Countercharge.
The allegations were made Monday by James V. Martin, formerly commander of the U. S. S. Lake Fray, a shipping leader of the A. R. A. At the same time, he declared a secret compact between England, France and the United States to crush the soviet government was entered into in 1919, with Hoover as the representative of this country.

In denying Martin's charges and explaining the conduct of the A. R. A. in Russia, Quinn, who supervised the entire shipment to Russia in August, 1919, reiterated the accusations against Martin for which he was relieved of his command by the shipping board, but of which he later was exonerated.

Martin's Delusion.
"Captain Martin," Quinn declared, "believes he played a great part in a gigantic conspiracy between Great Britain, France and the United States in an attempt to overthrow the bolshevik government in the fall of 1919. The captain did earnestly try to play a part in this matter, but not by the direction of the United States government, the American Red Cross, nor Mr. Hoover."

"The reason I remember this case so well is because the ship was delayed so long and we had a two-year war with the shipping board. Upon his arrival in Russia, Captain Martin opened negotiations with General Yudenitch and actually signed a contract to sell him a large number of ex-German airplanes which he proposed to buy cheaply in Germany, and he got a decoration for these services."

Food and Medicine.
"The food and medicine carried by the Lake Fray were distributed to the needy, and the relief to Russians, civilians and refugees generally was withdrawn late in August and only children were fed thereafter. The Yudenitch expedition started in October and failed in November long after the relief had stopped, and thus the relief missed the opportunity to join in the war."

Quinn scoffed at Martin's claim that he had delivered the supplies under fire to General Yudenitch in Russia. He pointed out the "representative of the central supply committee of the Russian army," a Kerevsky agent through whom the relief was working in Finland, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, because these could not obtain the supplies through Americans to carry on their work.

Rorah Studies Charges.
It was explained that more than 2,000,000 refugees were in the Baltic countries in August, 1919. One million of them consisted of prisoners of war, turned loose on the famished-stricken country from Germany, and the other millions were refugees from wars for independence waged by the small Baltic countries against the Russian yoke. Yudenitch's army, it was said, was recruited from among these refugees.

Senator Rorah, chairman of the senate Russian investigating committee, is studying the various charges and countercharges and expects to inquire into them formally when hearings before his committee are resumed.

DAUGHERTY DELAY IN INDIAN FRAUD BARED IN PROBE

Former Federal Attorney
Declares No Moves Taken To Recover Lands
Looted in Oklahoma.

BENCH JOB PRICE
WAS "CAMPAIGN COST"

Wayne Wilson Declares
Judge Olcott's Claim of Demand for $35,000 Was Merely Suggestion.

Washington, April 1.—Allegations of delay by the department of justice in seeking recovery of lands fraudulently taken from Oklahoma Indians were heard by the senate Daugherty committee when it resumed its public hearings today.

The committee then paused for a moment to hear Wayne Wilson, New York insurance man, deny that he had solicited $35,000 from J. Van Vleeton Olcott, a former New York congressman, for his appointment to a federal judgeship. Wilson said that he had merely suggested to Olcott on the word of others, that "a campaign for the post" might cost $10,000 to $20,000.

Testimony concerning the land question was given by H. M. Peck, former United States attorney for western Oklahoma, who declared that former Attorney General Daugherty had aided a delay and failure to bring civil action for recovery of holdings in the Miller Brothers "101 Ranch." Peck added that he had been dropped from the department of justice, and beyond criminal action in the case, had heard of no further action by the government until a few days ago.

Cites Fraud Case.
In Oklahoma, Peck testified, 48 Ponca and Osage Indians were wrongfully deprived of 7,680 acres of land by the operations of George L. Miller and two assistants. Miller, upon entering a plea of guilty in 1922 to the statutory charge of conspiracy and upon the statement of the trial judge that the government civil proceedings would be adequate penalty, was fined $7,500. There the matter rested, he added, although he said that he now had heard that about ten days ago the department of justice had begun looking into the question of recovering the lands.

The committee obtained possession of department of justice files relating to the matter for examination in executive session, and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, said that Edwin S. Booth, a special assistant attorney general, and former solicitor of the interior department under Secretary Fall, would be summoned to tell more of the circumstances to the committee.

Wilson, although declared by Mr. Olcott to have fixed the sum of $10,000 as necessary to obtain the presidential nomination for a federal judgeship, and $25,000 as suitable payment upon the confirmation of the appointee in office, denied explicitly that he had made the statement or that he was in any way connected with the department of justice.

Seeking to further Mr. Olcott's candidacy for the place, he asserted, he interviewed New York politicians and was told by one, Edgar S. Newell, "who died a year ago," that "a campaign for the place might cost $10,000 or twice that much. The money would be spent," Wilson explained, "in getting endorsements and meeting expenses," but he insisted he told Olcott not to spend "a red cent" of his own money.

There was a momentary excursion into the matter of the "101 Ranch" when the committee made it plain that his committee is powerless to give relief to water consumers until a redress is made in the finance sheet. Council has already appropriated the $1,028,000 of estimated revenue from the present rate. The revenue cannot be reduced until some of the appropriations are cut or repealed.

$30,000 in Excess.
Figures submitted by W. Zode Smith, superintendent of waterworks, based on March revenues, indicated that the increased rates would bring increased revenue $30,000 in excess of what had been estimated. This prospective excess is declared due largely to unusual waste from burst waterpipes during cold weather in February and early March.

The water committee granted the petition of Emory university and Wesley Memorial hospital by giving

HITLER GETS SLAP
ON WRIST IN VERDICT

Fascist Leader Must Serve
Six Months in Comfortable Fortress—Monarchists Glee.

BY FERDINAND JAHN.
Berlin, April 1.—Germany's swaggering, monarchical fascists have come a step nearer to achievement of their ambition to dominate Germany.

Monarchists from the Rhine to the Baltic have thrilled at the news that a Munich court finally freed General Ludendorff and gave Adolf Hitler the mildest sentence possible for treason, and then assured the fascist leader that he will only have to serve six months.

The announcement of mild judgment on the men who boasted of their part in attempting revolution loosed wild waves of nationalist enthusiasm, and the verdict is hailed as a sign of the coming day when monarchism will again work its will on subservient subjects.

Ludendorff Cheered.
A national flare-up occurred in Berlin Tuesday when a group celebrating Bismarck's birthday clashed near the Reichstag with a small group of radicals. Wreaths in monarchist colors had been heaped on Bismarck's statue, and when a radical placing his tribute before the statue unfurled a republican flag, the fight began. Police dispersed the crowd and restored order.

Meanwhile, in Munich General Ludendorff was hailed with cheers and cries of "Heil!" as he emerged from the court. Women and boys threw flowers before him as he went from the court to his home in a Munich suburb.

He Is Bombastic.
Source in the knowledge that the law could no longer touch him, Ludendorff became theatrical at the close of the trial, declaring that he was "ashamed" to be acquitted while his comrades were condemned. His nine "comrades" had all been sentenced, but none of the sentences were severe, in view of the charges.

When a court official requested the general to enter his automobile in the courtyard instead of the street, in order that public demonstrations would be lessened, Ludendorff turned on him with a true officer's snarl, saying: "Arrest me if you dare—put me back with my comrades."

Knew He Was Safe.
The court rebuked him sharply, saying that his answer was "grossly improper." The audience in the courtroom cheered, evidently thinking that their hero really wanted to be hanged back to a gallows. One bolt crashed upon Ludendorff's perfectly safe, for no one wants him in jail. It has been virtually certain for weeks that Ludendorff would be acquitted.

Hitler, meanwhile, has been condemned to "fasting," or fortress arrest, which is generally regarded as a sort of honorable imprisonment. Prisoners in fortresses are watched by troops, but more distinguished prisoners, such as traitors and officers guilty of crimes, are kept in special cells.

ASK $150,000 CUT IN FINANCE SHEET

Responsibility for Readjustment of Water Rate
Passed to Finance Committee.

Responsibility for readjustment of the present water rates was passed on to the finance committee of council by the water committee in executive session Tuesday night at which it adopted a resolution by Councilman Edward H. Inman calling upon the finance committee to cut $150,000 or more out of the January finance sheet to apply to a reduction in water rates.

Chairman I. N. Ragsdale of the water committee made it plain that his committee is powerless to give relief to water consumers until a redress is made in the finance sheet. Council has already appropriated the $1,028,000 of estimated revenue from the present rate. The revenue cannot be reduced until some of the appropriations are cut or repealed.

Cicero Polls Vivid Vote As Bullets Mark Ballots

BY HARLAN S. MILLER.
Chicago, April 1.—Aroused by the wobbly state of affairs at Washington, citizens of Cicero, a suburban village, took their six-shooters in hand this election day and demonstrated that Americans still are capable of taking an active interest in their public affairs.

All day the revolver proved mightier than the voters' pencil, until 120 reserve police speeded to the polls. The leading carload, encountering a gang of intimidators, killed one of them, Frank Caponi, in front of a voting place, and wounded a bystander. The gang failed in a bold attempt to drive the police away.

It was only a local election. No senatorships or presidencies were at stake. Such humble dignitaries as town clerk, constables, justices of the peace and perhaps a dog-catcher or two were to be chosen. Yet a fear seemed to be abroad that the federal infection had spread even to Cicero.

Was Three-Cornered Affair.
In consequence, the election was a three-cornered battle between strong-arm men, voters and police. Before the last free citizen of the republic, and a few subjects of European monarchies and democracies, had cast their votes, two candidates had been beaten, one kidnapped, one policeman shot and a hundred minute men pressed into service.

THOR'S OBLIGATO PLAYED FOR SNOW

Lightning Flashes Add
Weird Effect to Fall of Snow That Descends on Atlantic States.

New York, April 1.—A jazz snow storm, in which winter staged a rough dance with spring to a thunder obligato and lightning novelty effects and finally tried out its frazier partner, swept the Atlantic states today.

The fresh storm was said to have set on April record in New York and in most of the country it visited. Winter slipped down a fluff of snow to a depth varying from four and a half inches in Connecticut to eleven inches in Baltimore suburbs. "In all instances, the snow turned to slush directly it struck the ground. It carried down telephone and telegraph wires about New York, interfered with harbor shipping, delayed commuters' trains and was responsible for a rare-er collision of elevated trains resulting in the death of one man and injuries to 15 others. Several thousand street cleaners, with an augmented battery of snow-clearing machinery, fought the storm throughout the night in five boroughs.

Thunder and Lightning, Too.
Thunder and lightning provided the spring touch for nearly three hours at New York. But the snow did not turn to rain and the spring-like disturbance acknowledged itself just as darkness crept down the city's canyon streets.

The storm, with the freakish element always a part of it, came up from the Gulf states and storm signals were displayed from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Maine. The center shifted northeastward from a point between Cape Hatteras and Henry this afternoon and was estimated to be off Long Island tonight.

The storm brought an early end to the deliberations of the senate when Washington's streets had been covered under six inches of slush and traffic was generally disorganized.

Heavy Snow in Baltimore.
Downtown Baltimore was under nine inches of water-snow and the opening day's race program at Bowie had to be put over until tomorrow. Lightning and thunder flashed and rumbled at a great rate in both places, as they did in New Haven, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Poughkeepsie. The electrical storm gave Philadelphia a bad hour or so, with broken telephone and telegraph wires, a partly crippled police telegraph system, and with fuses blown out all over the city. One bolt crashed upon the Pennsylvania military college campus, steaming off great patches of snow.

The New York weather bureau was not particularly optimistic about tomorrow, dismissing its prospects with a brief "cloudy Wednesday," but promising a fair Thursday.

A pitched battle took place between the posse and the slayer, who was well armed in the woods near here. During the exchange of shots the man was hit several times and it is believed he is fatally wounded.

COUNCIL ELECTION OF CITY OFFICIALS WILL BE PROPOSED

Ten Atlanta Department
Heads, Affected by Plan,
Are Now Elected by Popular Vote.

INMAN CALLS SYSTEM
BAD BUSINESS POLICY

Etheridge Says Present Plan Imposes Great Financial Hardship on Men
Facing Opposition.

A charter amendment to make all heads of city departments elective by mayor and general council will be proposed to council Monday by Councilman Edward H. Inman, of the eighth ward, and Councilman W. M. Etheridge, of the fifth ward, who the endorsement of Mayor Walter A. Sims, it became known at city hall Tuesday afternoon.

The amendment, should it be approved by council and adopted by the general assembly this summer, would change the mode of election of 10 city department heads who are now elected by popular vote every two years and would empower council to name them.

Departments Affected.
The department heads affected would be the chief of construction, superintendent of water works, judge of recorder's court, city electrician, building inspector, city attorney, city controller, city tax collector, city marshal, and city warden.

Mayor Sims endorsed the general plan of the proposed change as being the best means of insuring cooperation among all department and resultant efficient service to the people. He declared that independently elected department heads could not be compelled to cooperate with council or with the executive department, handicapping both in carrying out campaign pledges and interfering seriously with efficient operation of city government.

Councilman Inman asserted that the present system is bad business policy because while the people elect one group of men to raise money and apportion it for expenditure, they elect another group of men, entirely independent of the first, to carry out instructions of the first group.

Stresses Financial Hardship.
Councilman Etheridge stressed especially the financial burden imposed on city department heads in compelling them to run for election before the people of the entire city. It costs almost any city department head one year's salary to run before the people for a two-year term if he has opposition. In a hotly contested campaign, the entire salary for a two-year term may be required for campaign expenses.

The Etheridge-Inman amendment will be referred by council Monday to the charter revision committee, for public hearings. Councilman W. E. Saunders, chairman, stated that it probably would not be taken up for action until the several school board amendments are disposed of, but that it would be sent back to council with a definite recommendation before the next session of the general assembly, which convenes the last week in June.

1 KILLED, 15 HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

Elevated Train Plows
Through Four Cars at Station During Blinding
Snowstorm.

New York, April 1.—Fireman John Quinn was killed and 15 persons were injured when an elevated train crashed into another at a Long Island City station during a blinding snowstorm today.

Quinn, a member of the city fire department, was a passenger on a stalled train and was seated directly behind the motorman's cab in the rear car.

The accident occurred on a stretch of suburban elevated line used by trains of both the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company and the Interborough Rapid Transit company. A branch of the latter company smashed its way into the rear of the B. M. T. train, which had stopped at the station to take on and discharge passengers. Both trains were made up of wooden cars, and Manhattan benders.

With the day drawing to an end, great gusts of snow and sleet obscured the view of the motorman and clogged the rails with half-frozen sleet, which made it impossible for him to bring the heavy train to a sudden stop when he glimpsed the forward train within but a few feet of it.

The forward end of the second train ploughed through the rear car of the first as though it were so much paper. Men and women home-goers, jammed in the cars of both trains, were thrown headlong and their cries rose above the grinding roar of the smashed wood. Emergency calls brought two ambulances and 15 men and women who had been injured, in more or less degree, were removed to two nearby hospitals.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.
Washington, April 1.—The result of the series of primaries in southern and western states favorable to McAdoo has reacted in Washington in the shape of attaching great importance to the question of who will qualify as second man and heir apparent to McAdoo.

That accounts for the significance widely attributed, correctly or in error, to the interview with Senator Thomas J. Walsh, in New York, and the attention paid to Colonel George Harvey's allusion to Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas. These are only two out of many. There are not less than ten potential democratic candidates who represent the same sort of sentiment as McAdoo, namely progressive and "dry," and whose friends are eager to keep them in a position to be the beneficiary of McAdoo's strength in the convention in the event the circumstances should arise when McAdoo may cast that strength not for himself but for a second choice.

Georgia Gets Credit.
McAdoo is the only progressive and "dry" democrat who is making the race in state after state on a nationwide basis. Partly as a result of this monopoly of activity; and partly as a result of his inherent attractiveness to many voters, McAdoo is accumulating delegates at a rate which makes it now practically certain that in the convention he will have a larger following than any other one candidate. The thought of crying McAdoo out of the race because of the revolution about his legal connections has now been given up.

Indoor Carnival Draws Thousands To Auditorium

Wide Variety of Amusement
Is Offered by Junior Leaguers.

BY PAUL WARWICK.
Radiant in her colorful garb and fairly building with music, mirth and assorted merriment, the good old auditorium acted host to thousands of fortunate Atlantans last night as the spectacular indoor carnival of the Atlanta Junior League got away to one of those glorious starts we frequently read about in pretty books, but seldom believe.

For within the four walls of that edifice there were a lot of things—color enough to bewilder Titian, Sir Joshua Reynolds and Maxfield Parrish thrown in for good measure; enough music to turn Mozart, Verdi, Debussy and Irving Berlin a deep Nile green with envy, and enough concentrated good nature to make a philanthropist out of the man who used to pay his son fifteen cents to go without supper and then charge him 20 cents for breakfast.

It was a great occasion and the pretty part of it—IT STILL is, for the whole delightful medley of merry-making is to be repeated again today, beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon and lasting until midnight.

Gorgeous Array of Beauty.
Natural impulses shout out a command to devote seventeen paragraphs right here to the gorgeous array of beauty that circulated around, danced for, sang to and paraded before the milling sea of spectators Tuesday night, but words are but puny instruments.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Milwaukee, Wis., April 2.—Shortly before 1:30 a. m., a total of 352 precincts out of 2,574 in the state shows La Follette delegates still holding their advantage over those of President Coolidge. The total shows La Follette 33,400; Coolidge, 15,430.

The delegates pledged to Al Smith, wet candidate, continued to show strength in the democratic race. In Wisconsin for presidential delegates, 254 precincts gave Smith delegates 5,417 and McAdoo delegates 3,741.

As the polls closed in Milwaukee at 8 p. m., indications pointed to a record-breaking vote, but outside the city the recent storm so crippled transportation facilities that the vote will be light.

Senator La Follette is assured of eight of the 29 delegates to the republican convention. In four of the 11 districts his delegates had no opposition. La Follette leaders also claim the election of three of the delegates at large because only four Coolidge men were placed on the slate, while the La Follette faction placed the full quota of seven in the field as increased by the republican national committee.

On the democratic side, both McAdoo and Smith factions filed a complete slate in each district. Telephone and telegraph service in the state is crippled and round-about service is being used to bring in the returns.

Primaries were held in all Virginia cities today to name municipal officers for the party ticket in the June general elections. Bad weather cut down the vote in many places.

Rain, snow, sleet and hail fell throughout the early part of the day in Richmond but the total vote cast here, approximately 15,000, was as large as had been looked for, so great

WILL NOT PROLONG PROBES IN SENATE

Washington, April 1.—Any disposition on the part of senate democrats to unduly prolong the present round of investigations was disclaimed today in a formal statement by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader.

Mr. Robinson made no specific reference to the resolution for investigation of Secretary Mellon, introduced by Senator Mc-Kellar, democrat, Tennessee, and laid aside yesterday after the democratic leader had talked over the situation with many of his colleagues. His statement was generally accepted, however, as diminishing the prospect that the resolution ever will come to a vote.

"The senate should take up as soon as practicable," the Arkansas senator said, "the large and important subjects of legislation which it is predicted shall receive attention during the present session. These include tax reduction, adjusted compensation, immigration, expression of legislative will that the freight rate structure be reorganized with a view to reductions on farm products and commodities essential to farming and the elimination of the Pullman surcharge. Other measures, of course, will require attention and some of them are of major importance."

Prince or Plain Doctor She Joins Him in Death

New York, April 1.—It mattered nothing to Grace Wakefield, 51, a spinster, whether the man who died of heart disease in a Bronx hospital yesterday was O. N. Delow, doctor of philosophy, or the Prince Johann Salvator, long and mysteriously missing archduke of Austria.

It only mattered that he was gone from her, and she joined him in death today, drowning herself in a bath tub after having slashed her wrists to prevent any possible miscarriage of her plans. With her went a pet dog, held until death under the same water, and her two bright parrots, drowned in a nearby hand basin.

Grace Wakefield was the ward of the kindly old gentleman of distinguished bearing and genuine reminiscence whose death was recorded as quiere attention and some of them are of major importance. "Practically none of these measures had been reported by the committees. Many of my colleagues on this side of the chamber join in expressing the conviction that those subjects should be brought forward for action just as speedily as possible. While differences of opinion exist among us touching some of these questions, we are all anxious to see them taken up and disposed of, and we are not especially critical as to the order in which they shall be considered."

"It is not essential, in order to transmit necessary legislative business, to cover up or conceal facts which ought to be brought to light in the various investigations ordered by the senate. There is no disposition on the part of democratic senators to unduly prolong these inquiries or to permit them to be directed into collateral and relatively unimportant issues. The object to be attained, in so far as possible, is the thoroughly honest and reasonably efficient administration of public affairs. This achievement is brought about by the co-operation of all who earnestly desire it is invited and expected."

Washington, April 1.—A plan to let the government pay political campaign expenses was brought forward here today by William Jennings Bryan.

Recalling that President Roosevelt once suggested some such arrangement, Mr. Bryan said the senate disclosures had prepared the public mind for acceptance of the plan, and advocated quick action so it could be employed in the 1924 campaign.

The formal announcements of candidates would be placed before the people in a bulletin issued by the government, and there would be an additional appropriation from the federal treasury amounting to ten cents per voter, apportioned among parties according to their last recorded strength.

Thus, said Mr. Bryan, parties and candidates would be saved from "obligating themselves to the predatory interests."

ATTORNEY CONVICTED OF BLACKMAIL PLOT

Cambridge, Mass., April 1.—William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, was today found guilty of blackmail.

He was charged specifically with verbally threatening to accuse Kenneth Merrill, of Newton, of a serious offense with intent to extort money from him.

FIGHT ON POWER ACT IS LAID TO OFFICIAL

Washington, April 1.—O. C. Merrill, secretary of the federal power commission, was charged in the house today by Representative Swing, republican, California, with attempting to undermine the policy of the federal water power act.

Mr. Swing, author of the Johnson-Swing bill providing for governmental development of the proposed Boulder Canyon dam on the Colorado river, said Mr. Merrill in several speeches had attempted to discredit governmental ownership, and that his speeches had been used as campaign literature by power companies in California fighting municipal projects in that state.

In a speech at Lake Placid, N. Y., last October, Mr. Swing said, Merrill referred to "the California water power act campaign," as a proposal which "might embark the state on the troubled sea of political ownership," and in another speech at Asheville, N. C., last June said, "we should not overlook the necessary limitations that surround public ownership."

Representative Williamson, republican, South Dakota, urged development by the government of a "super-power system" which would embrace 11 western irrigation and power projects already developed, and also include the proposed Boulder Canyon dam and the Muscle Shoals properties in Alabama.

Mr. Williamson said the government, by controlling such a system could be able indirectly to compel private companies to make "reasonable power charges."

JAPS MADE POOR BY QUAKE LEAVE FOR OTHER LANDS

Tokio, April 1.—Penniless and homeless as a result of the Japanese earthquake, 100 Japanese families are sailing shortly for South America, to begin life anew in Brazil.

With the party 25 single men who have been unable to find work since the great disaster. The expenses of the party are being paid by the Tokio Central Employment bureau, and a Brazilian company has agreed to find employment for the refugees on coffee plantations.

Hundreds of men have applied for transportation to South America since the work of selecting the emigrants began, and when it was learned that preference would be given to destitute married men a number of the bachelors announced that they would look for brides immediately.

DEATH TOLL OF BOOZE IN TOLEDO REACHES 12

Toledo, Ohio, April 1.—Deaths in Toledo since Sunday from drinking denatured alcohol reached 12 today when Charles O'Donnell, 55, Buffalo, N. Y., died at Municipal hospital. O'Donnell's death was the fifth today. Eleven men died Sunday night and Monday.

Police began a drive against drugists and others who sell denatured alcohol for beverage purposes, and arrested Meyer Selzman, 25, drugist, and two of his clerks, Harry Porter, 16, and Martin Bracker, 24.

Inside Facts on Meat Packing
Successful agriculture is inseparably linked with soil fertility, and meat animals are the means for turning crops into cash without lessening fertility. The greater the consumption of meat, therefore, the easier the road to successful agricultural prosperity.

EXPERTS WORK LATE IN NIGHT ON REPORT

Paris, April 1.—The drafting committee, which is putting the finishing touches on the report which the reparations experts will present to the reparations commission, sat far into the night trying to bring their labor to a speedy conclusion.

Charles G. Dawes, American chair, and the first committee, considered the report virtually complete, but the drafting committee, which Owen H. Young, of New York, is a member, will hold a day-long hearing Wednesday to afford committees who have not sent written suggestions an opportunity to express their views concerning changes.

Mr. Dawes said today that as far as the separate sections of the report are concerned they are sent to the French national printing bureau, but if the French commissioners cannot keep up with them the typewritten sheets will be handed to the reparations commission in order to expedite the settlement. The prospect of this coming at the week end is still bright, although some of those well informed maintain that the first draft week is more likely.

Sodom, Gomorrah Placed by Find Of Kir of Moab

St. Louis, April 1.—The lower Dead Sea region of Palestine has been scientifically explored for the first time, and with great success, Melvin Grove Kyle, president of the Xenia Theological seminary of Missouri and head of the research expedition, writes from Jerusalem.

The expedition, which acted in cooperation with the American school of archaeology of Jerusalem, reports the discovery of the old fortress of Kir of Moab, and the region of Sodom and Gomorrah is determined. Graves of a cemetery there yielded fine pottery of the days of Abraham and the "Glory of Sodom."

Dr. Kyle writes that the mysterious rising of the Dead Sea can now be explained and the Biblical story of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah is fully confirmed, but without details of his discoveries.

The legend of infernal weather in the Dead Sea region is not true, Dr. Kyle declares, and predicts the growth of a winter health resort there in the future that will surpass in its ideal climate and romantic scenery that of Luxor, Egypt.

KEAN CANDIDATES WIN IN TULSA

Tulsa, Okla., April 1.—The democratic city administration of Tulsa, backed by the Ku Klux Klan, was today re-elected in entirety over the republican and anti-klan ticket.

MARYLAND G. O. P. TO MEET MAY 14

Baltimore, Md., April 1.—Galen L. Tait, chairman of the republican state central committee, today issued a call for the republican state convention to be held May 14. The primary election at which delegates to the convention will be selected will be held May 5. The state convention will select 19 delegates to the republican national convention.

It is generally assumed that since President Coolidge is the only candidate who has filed in Maryland, if no other files he obtains the delegation by default. Mr. Tait said in his call: "This is not a trifling issue. The primary law provides that the primary ballot shall be so printed that a republican can vote for any presidential candidate who has filed, or may vote for an unrestricted delegation to the national convention."

Chairman Tait suggested as "principles or policies" that republicans should support President Coolidge at the May primary; that the state convention should pledge the delegates to the national convention to vote for President Coolidge; the administration of President Coolidge should be endorsed and that suitable recognition in the national delegation should be given women and negroes.

GEORGIA STOPPED OLD GUARD PLAN

ing victory over Underwood in Georgia, and with the results favorable to McAdoo in other states.

Those candidates and democratic leaders like Senator Reed, of Missouri, have been disillusioned who assumed immediately after the oil revelations that McAdoo could be hauled out of the running forthwith.

Old Guard in Disorder.
The "old guard" however, who thought the progressive and dry faction of the democratic party would be thrown into chaos by the revelations about McAdoo, and who thought they could nominate Governor Smith, of New York, or any other "old guard" candidate, are no longer so confident.

It is now accepted as a fact that the progressive and "dry" democrats hold together, and that they will compose about half the convention, and that they will have under the leadership of McAdoo, either for McAdoo himself, or for some second choice who is progressive and "dry."

The information coming to Washington is to the effect that the progressive and "dry" democrats who pay allegiance to McAdoo will register one more victory in Iowa on Wednesday. On that day the democratic state convention is to be held in Iowa, and the anticipation is that it will be dominated by ex-Secretary of Agriculture E. F. McPherson and Clyde Herring, who are progressive democrats and friendly to McAdoo.

Iowa to Revolt.
If this anticipation is correct, it will be in the nature of a state revolution. For years Iowa, although a western state and a state with progressive ideas in politics has been represented in the democratic national committee by a leadership which cooperated with the "old guard" democratic leaders of New York and Chicago.

California is another state in which an effort to oppose McAdoo has failed to make progress. The effort to take California away from McAdoo was first made under the leadership of forces which put forward Senator Reed, of Missouri. When that blew up, after some tentative signs toward finding another standard bearer, the effort has now fallen to trying to send an instructed delegation. It is considered, however, that McAdoo will have California without embarrassment.

Railston Favored.
In short, the most conspicuous thing now going on in democratic circles in Washington is the effort of other candidates to avoid embarrassing McAdoo, to keep in good terms with his following, and to try to qualify as his heir. In the event that he is elected, his position is not secure. There is no space to list all the candidates who may ultimately fill this position. It is probably a fair statement that of all the McAdoo delegates so far chosen, there is a larger number who have Senator Railston, of Indiana, as their second choice than any other one.

If the whole, or nearly the whole, McAdoo strength should turn to Railston, the latter would be in an extremely strong position because some of the "old guard" democrats are not averse to him.

DYCHE WILL BARE PRISON CONDITIONS

Washington, April 1.—(Special.)—Testimony regarding conditions at the Atlanta federal penitentiary under his administration will be laid before the committee investigating the department of justice by J. E. Dyche, former warden at Atlanta, it was said by Senator Wheeler, of Montana, prosecutor for the committee, Tuesday.

Dyche appeared before the committee Monday, where he testified regarding the activities of Jake Hamon, Oklahoma oil man and politician, in the republican campaign of 1920.

Dyche is under subpoena by the justice department committee, and will confer with Senator Wheeler Wednesday regarding his appearance on the stand and the nature of his testimony. He saw Wheeler Tuesday for a few minutes, but did not disclose what will be the nature of his revelations.

Dyche also will be asked, it is understood, regarding pardon cases which transpired during his administration at Atlanta. Dyche is now a prohibition agent. He told the committee Tuesday that he had resigned partly "on his own initiative and partly not." He said that former Attorney General Daugherty had "a friend" who wanted to put in a friend from Columbus, when he was asked why Daugherty wanted him to give up the place.

FINE INDOOR CIRCUS SHOW IS PROMISED BY ATLANTA ELKS

An exceptionally fine show is promised by the Elks of Atlanta in their indoor charity circus to be held in the city auditorium under the direction of the Joe Green Production company, of Chicago, starting May 3 and lasting through May 10.

Those who are sponsoring the circus claim that it will exceed all previous attempts at this line in Atlanta. There will be fun games for both the kids and the grownups. All the hot dog stands, popcorn, peanuts, lemonade, and other attractions that are in evidence on such occasions will be on hand when the doors are opened.

An oriental atmosphere will be effected in the decorating and the lights, and one of the acts will feature a trio of Japanese in a very difficult act of gymnastic stunts. Other acts will include the LaSalle Trio, acrobatic clowning, the Seven Tip Tops, who do stunts of pyramid building and tumbling; the Novikoff troupe, Russian acrobatics; the Ballets Trio, equilibrist; the Loretta Twins, who are said to perform an act that is the only one of its kind in the world.

The Elks of Atlanta are sparing neither time nor expense to make the circus a memorable one, and it is expected that the auditorium will be filled to capacity from the time that the doors are opened until they are shut.

1,500 Baptists Plan To Attend Sessions Of LaGrange Meet

The Georgia Baptist Sunday school convention at LaGrange April 8-10 will gather together more than 1,500 persons interested in the conduct of Baptist Sunday schools and speakers of prominence from all sections of the country, George W. Andrews, convention secretary, stated Tuesday on releasing a complete program of the meeting.

LaGrange homes will be thrown open and citizens will play hosts to delegates and leaders. Dr. Spencer Tunnell will welcome delegates in behalf of LaGrange, and Rev. Ernest P. Campbell, of Gainesville, will respond. Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church of Atlanta, will greet delegates in behalf of the convention.

Speakers outside the state will include Dr. W. D. Powell, of Kentucky; Homer J. Connelley, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. J. E. Dillard, of Birmingham; Mrs. J. M. Dawson, of Texas; and Harry L. Strickland, of the Baptist Sunday school board of Nashville, Tenn.

R. C. Norman, of Washington, Ga., is president of the association, and Dr. Joseph Broughton, of Atlanta, is one of five vice presidents. Rev. L. E. Roberts, of College Park, will conduct devotional exercises at the concluding service April 10.

Atlantans Fail To See Any Joke In Winter Encore

Atlantans generally conceded, when they poked their noses out of the blankets early Tuesday morning, that there was no joke about the brand of weather dished out for them April 1. The thermometer, after sitting pretty at a sparkling point for a week, had dropped to 35 degrees at 7 a. m. Tuesday, to the accompaniment of a 10-mph wind. No comfort to be had on the floor of the house of representatives that special privileges had been granted certain inmates of the institution, securing one Ohio prisoner. Authorities of the prison, however, have denied this charge. Debs was given his freedom while Dyche was warden.

Things atmospherically are likely to warm up, however, Wednesday afternoon, and from then on it is considered probable that spring will be here to stay, with no more wintry intrusions. Though, of course, even C. F. von Herrmann, official weatherman, admits that predicting weather conditions is harder in April, month of fantastic surprises, than any other of the twelve.

Showers probably will accompany the rising thermometer the latter part of the week.

Scanning the monthly meteorological summary for March, it is noted that the mean temperature for the month was 48.9 degrees, just 3.1 degrees colder than normal. The average daily deficiency in temperature since January 1 is 3.6 degrees.

Precipitation is likewise off for the year, being 6.51 inches shy of normal since January 1. The deficiency during March was 3.92 inches. During March there were 13 days of clear, four partly cloudy, fourteen cloudy, with a total of 207 hours of sunshine. Six frosts occurred during the month, a light frost of the 24th, heavy frosts of the 19th and 25th, and killing frosts on the 15th, 16th and 17th. Thunderstorms were recorded on the 19th, 20th and 26th.

Scholarship Data Is Asked By Dixie Woman's Alliance

Georgia church organizations, educational institutions of all kinds, civic, philanthropic, patriotic, educational, recreational, and all other organizations, as well as individuals having gift scholarships, student loans or facilities for student self-aid work, are being asked this week to send comprehensive data as soon as possible to the Atlanta office of the Southern Woman's Educational Alliance, 219 Ivy street.

The information is to be compiled there and when the office is open to the public will be available for any student, parent, organization or institution needing it. Prompt and widespread response to this request is urgently asked, as the task is one for the common good of all groups concerned and it is important to make the information inclusive as to the hundreds of such existing aids.

Facts Needed. Facts needed are the name, address, telephone of the organization, institution or individual granting such aids, and also of the individual in charge of administering them; nature of such aids, as to whether gift scholarships, loans or facilities for student self-aid work; total financial value of such aids; total amount available for any one student for any one year; character requirements of applicants; educational requirements and types of education for which help is available, whether elementary school, high school, college, university, business or professional.

The Southern Woman's Educational Alliance does not employment work of any sort but will record information as to where students may secure self-aid work, in the institutions where they are studying or in connection with such study.

Mrs. Wilson's Letter. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, honorary chairman of the Washington branch of the Southern Woman's Educational Alliance, has recently issued in Washington the following letter personally signed:

We earnestly hope that all southerners in Washington will realize the value of the work being done by the Southern Woman's Educational Alliance, and that they will assist in the collection of data as far as possible by working with the Washington branch.

FORSYTH UNDERPASS TO BE CLOSED BY JUNE Closing of the Forsyth street underpass before June 1 is assured, it was declared Tuesday by Mayor Walter A. Sims in signing the $18,000 contract with MacDougall Construction company for doing the work.

The contract requires that the underpass be closed, and the viaduct opened for traffic across its entire width within 45 days after Fairlie street is thrown open to traffic from Marietta street into the railway yards. Fairlie is to be opened by April 15, the mayor stated, and work on the Forsyth underpass will begin then.

The contract with MacDougall is part of the Forsyth street viaduct project. An arrangement was made by council and the board of public works with the railway companies whereby the viaduct could be thrown across the railway yards and Forsyth street underpass to the yards closed provided Fairlie street was opened into the yards.

The contract has been approved by council and the aldermanic board. Money was provided in the January appropriation sheet.

Closing of another detail in connection with the work was announced Tuesday by Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the board of public works. O. R. Keeler tells "The City Builder" that he has been retained to supervise the foundation work on the viaduct. The payment relieves the city of all liability.

FOUR DECATUR FIRES CAUSE $6,000 LOSS

Decatur, Ga., April 1.—(Special.)—Four fires today destroyed property valued at more than $6,000 in this city. High winds fanned the flames and the Atlanta fire department was called to assist in the fight.

Sparks from a fire at the home of L. W. Williams, at 250 East Lake drive, set fire to the house of S. R. Stevens, at 252 West Lake drive, and caused the greatest loss. Other fires damaged homes of Charles A. Allen, 521 Clermont avenue, and J. A. Campbell, 129 Church street.

JUDGE GUNN MAY QUIT MACON COURT BENCH Macon, Ga., April 1.—(Special.)—Judge Will Gunn, serving his second term as judge of the city court of Macon, is about to resign, according to reports believed to be authentic, current today.

Judge Gunn has been elected vice president of the Georgia Cattle company, a position which will take practically all his time. He stated that he would make known his decision within a few days.

In the event Judge Gunn resigns, Governor Walker will appoint a successor.

SABOTAGE, BRIBES CHARGED IN SUIT

Baltimore, Md., April 1.—Charges that employees of the war department, navy department, United States railroad administration and the United States shipping board were bribed by the so-called "barbiste trust" are made in a suit for $225,000, trial of which is scheduled to start before Judge Soper and a jury in the United States court tomorrow.

The Alexander Milburn company, of Baltimore, filed the suit three years ago and since that time more than 12,000 pages of testimony have been taken in many large cities. The trial is expected to continue for 40 months, and there will be nearly 40 lawyers assembled at the trial tables. Among the charges is that the defendants brought about explosions of acetylene generators by bribing workmen, and caused acetylene generators to explode by bribing workmen.

The action, which was brought under the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws, is directed against the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, the Union Carbide company, the World Acetylene company, the Gwynedd Railroad Service company, the Linda Air Products company, the Post-Lite company and the Davis Bournville company.

The complaint is that the defendants combined for the purpose of defrauding the government, and that they made use of their appliances to the partial and complete exclusion of the plaintiff. It is also alleged the defendants conspired in defrauding the government.

Growth of Spirit Of Harmony Seen In Military Area

There is a constantly growing spirit of harmony between all branches of the United States military organization in the fourth corps area, declared Major General David C. Shanks, in command of the area, at a meeting of the Association of the Army of the United States Tuesday night at the Kimball House.

The occasion was a regular monthly meeting of the Atlanta sector of the association designated as "National Guard Night," and especially arranged as a welcome to the officers of the newly formed regiment of national guard, the 200th infantry.

General Shanks stated that he was much gratified at the manner in which military matters in this area are shaping. They are now building, he said, for the first time, to his knowledge, on the solid foundation of training of civilian soldiers as the backbone of the United States army organization. Officers of all branches, the regular army, the national guard and the reserve corps are working together in fullest harmony and cooperation.

Best Available Personnel. The officer personnel of the new 200th infantry, said the general, is the very best available in this section, which means, he added, the best to be found in the United States. He formally welcomed these officers as comrades and on behalf of all officers in the area extended a promise of continued cooperation in their future work.

Adjutant General Charles H. Cox, who has been made colonel of the new regiment, reviewed briefly the record of the national guard. He stated that of 42 divisions which saw overseas service in the A. E. F., seven-tenths were national guard divisions. More than one-third of the men killed in the American army in the world war were in national guard divisions; more than one-third of the total wounded were in these divisions and more than one-third of the total distance gained in battle was won by these divisions.

The national guard of Georgia, said Colonel Cox, desires to cooperate in every way with the war or department in its plans for the military organization of the United States. The national guard, he said, not only was seeking to make the best use of the members of its units, but also was making better citizens of them. It teaches them respect for constituted authority and, by its system of popular promotion in rank, instills in the men the ambition for advancement in their civilian work, he said.

Indebted to Regulars. Colonel Cox spoke of the new regiment's indebtedness to the regular army officers of the fourth corps area for their assistance in formation of the regiment, as well as support in the securing assignment of this regiment to Georgia by the war department at Washington. He said official authorization for formation of the regiment was not received until February 28, and now all units have been mustered in and federally inspected with the exception of two outfits, Atlanta companies. Officers of the new regiment, he said, were all men who had had war experience, and he believed the personnel averaged higher than in any previous militia organization in the south.

Colonel James M. Kimbrough, Jr., of the regular army, assigned to the Georgia national guard as senior instructor, spoke briefly of the work of organization of the 200th infantry in which he has had an active part, being assigned by the war department as inspection officer as the different units were mustered. He referred to the fact that practically every line of business in Atlanta is represented in the ranks of this regiment and pointed out, if ever the time came in the future when the morale of the regiment would be tried in active service, it would acquire itself creditably to the city, the state and the nation.

History of Fifth Georgia. Captain Basil Stockbridge, adjutant of the new organized regiment, told in brief outline the history of the old fifth Georgia regiment. He reviewed its career since its expansion from a single battalion to an independent regiment in 1881, to its time of the Mexican border service. He mentioned prominent men who had been among its officers, including Colonel John S. Canfield, its first commander; Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, J. Van Holt Nash, one of its first lieutenant colonels; Hugh M. Dorsey, one-time captain in the regiment; W. D. Ellis, now member of the Fulton superior court, one-time captain; Colonel J. M. Kimbrough, Jr., Major Bob Burnham, and many others.

The orchestra of the 22nd infantry, of Fort McPherson, rendered a delightful musical program during the dinner. Colonel Eugene M. Oberdorfer, Jr., president of the association, announced that there would be one more regular meeting before the conclusion of the spring series. Details of the program of this meeting will be sent to the members later, he stated. A number of new members were admitted to the association.

As a child, Annie S. Peck, noted for her daring mountain climbing feats, was very timid and filled with fear.

QUITMAN TO MOURN RUSSELL DAVIS' DEATH

Quitman, Ga., April 1.—(Special.)—All business throughout the city will be suspended today as Quitman pays a last tribute to J. Russell Davis, 53, prominent business man and civic worker, who died early this morning following an attack of acute indigestion. Funeral services will be held from the residence, 14-terry, tomorrow at 2 p. m. The average age of civil war widows is 74.25.

"Hoppin' the freight"

More than 83,000 people are killed in the United States every year by accident. Of this number less than 8% are killed by the railroads.

"Hoppin' the freight" is a contributing factor to these accidents; one of the dangerous practices that the L. & N. Railroad is endeavoring to correct; one of many obstacles that the Road is striving to overcome in its unceasing fight for public safety. Every L. & N. station master—and train employee as well—is charged with the special duty of watching boys around the stations, to keep them from "hoppin' the freight," and other such hazardous pastimes. And it is a hard job.

Some accidents cannot be prevented; they are unavoidable. But "hoppin' the freight" and many other seemingly petty violations of railroad rules are unnecessary and preventable; and can be reduced to a minimum only by intelligent cooperation on the part of the public.

The traveler who boards the moving train; the man who can't wait until the car stops before he alights, and the motorist who neither stops, looks nor listens at railroad crossings—each is needlessly imperiling his life, as much as is the boy who "steals a ride" on a freight. They, like the youth, too often disregard the warnings of safety until serious injury or death makes it impossible to continue these risky habits.

The L. & N. is constantly installing new and modern devices for the safety of passengers. Therefore, if you yourself will be careful and take no unnecessary chances when on or near railroad property, you will help to reduce the number of accidents and injuries.

All the time you are reading, you are gazing at paper.

Black letters are seen best on white paper.

White reflects light—and too much reflected light tires the eye.

For printing that consists mainly of text and line drawings, the ideal paper is Warren's Olde Style—beautifully white, to contrast the type—yet non-reflecting, to rest the eye.

Just as a soft, pleasantly modulated voice invites your ear to listen, so the soft, even surface of Warren's Olde Style says to your eye, "Rest here."

This paper takes a sharp, clear impression of any type face or simple cut, and it does not absorb an undue amount of ink.

Warren's Olde Style is also made in India, a pleasing light tint.

Because of its uniform quality and color, your printer likes to use Warren's Olde Style on the kind of work for which it is suited.

WRIGHT RENEWS FIGHT TO CLEAR NAVAL RECORDS

Washington, April 1.—Admiral A. O. Wright, of Jacksonville, Fla., commander of the Confederate Veterans organization, has renewed here his fight to have cleared the records of 139 United States naval officers who joined the confederacy at the call of their home states.

A bill was passed by the senate at the last session to obliterate all of special stigma from the records of the men, but it failed of passage in the house where it lacked approval of the navy department.

Admiral Wright has been commanding a campaign throughout the south to arouse sentiment for his measure, and has addressed several legislatures. Today he saw Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, and Representative Oliver, democrat, Alabama, who will be asked to sponsor the bill to be introduced.

The record of Sidney S. Lee, brother of Robert E. Lee, is one of those which would be affected by his measure, Admiral Wright said.

"Home Beautiful" Exhibit Lures Great Hosts of Admirers

Two scenes in the Morningside home. On the left a view of the living-room; on the right the bed-room.

Stories of their beauty and thorough attractiveness, having been generally noted abroad, the three Home Beautifuls were visited again Tuesday by approximately 12,000 Atlantans who were charmed by the pleasing aspects of comfort, grace and homelike atmosphere, wrought out with a careful eye to economy and taste. The total attendance for the first three days of the show has now passed 60,000.

The home on Morningside, the most pretentious of the trio; the dwelling on North Jackson street, striking a happy medium of comfort and economy, and the cozy little nest that is the home on Sylvan road all drew a large number of admiring visitors during the day.

No similar effort in the city's history, it seems, has met with such a popular response from the public as these exhibits, which show in concrete and delightful form, just what a winning surroundings can be secured in a home be the man of little means, the man with a moderate income and the man who is more endowed with a goodly share of worldly goods.

Each Home Complete.

Each of the three homes is complete, in every sense. From well-stocked bookcases to the shining equipment of a modern kitchen, all details have been attended to—living room, dining room, bed chambers, bath, closets and hallways. The draperies and curtains on the windows, the carpets that cover the floors and the upholstering of the furniture all have been considered in bringing about a harmony compatible with the style of income for which the homes have been designed as models.

Though there is naturally a wide range of difference in the costs which prevail, say, at the Morningside home and that on Sylvan road, the observer does not sense that difference at either place. For in the larger home the decorative effects, even to the very natural and expected placing of the furniture, have been carried out with an idea of comfort and surroundings that soothe the eye; not strike it with splashes of color or bizarre effect. The smaller home, on the other hand, with its simpler furnishings, so closely follows the same ideal that the visitor does not realize he is in the midst of decidedly more modest surroundings.

Cosiness Increased.

The breath of coolish air of Tuesday, the work of a retroactive winter, did not mar the occasion, but rather heightened its effect on those who saw the exhibits. For on the two days past, while a glorious sun shone down outside, it had been unnecessary to light the fires in the homes. Tuesday, with the most modern of heating apparatus removing the chill from the rooms, the true cozy and lovable homelike atmosphere "got over" in still more splendid style.

For there's no man who doesn't feel more at home by fire-light than when hearth-stones are unoccupied. That's why all the famous pictures of homes show winter scenes outside and a glowing fire within that's why people wonder if there can be any real life in the tropic zone, where fires are not essential.

Labor Saving Devices.

Not only has every detail of the furnishings been taken care of, but every possible labor-saving device has been supplied to give the visitors an idea of just how remarkably cost present day advantages make the housework that once was a back-breaking drudgery.

In the smaller homes there has been a remarkable conservation of space, though there is none of that crowded appearance such as some so-called homes affect—reminding one of the trophy-stuffed den of old Tarzan of Tarzania, who could hardly move his pudgy body about his apartment for the dingy lot of meaningless trophies he had amassed.

There are pictures, but pictures in their place. There are chairs, but none of the hump-backed, spine-crushing ducking-stools that occasionally wander into drawing-rooms where people are supposed to know better, home furnishing and home making.

There are divans on which one can sit without sacrificing himself on the altar of deformity for the sake of decorative art.

In short, they are homes! And unwise is that Atlantian who has a home or ever hopes to have one who does not see the exhibits, or if not all of them the one that most nearly strikes his idea of what his purse could stand. The exhibit will last through Sunday and on Monday, from 10 until 4 o'clock, the homes will be open to the colored people of Atlanta, in order that they may get a view of the very latest ideas in

DAUGHERTY PROUD OF RECORD IN JOB

Washington, April 1.—The department of justice made public today letters written by Harry M. Daugherty to his associates on his retirement from the office of attorney general. In each of them Mr. Daugherty emphasized his pride in the achievements of the department of justice during his administration, and gave full praise to his co-workers for all results obtained.

To Assistant Attorney General Seymour, Mr. Daugherty wrote: "The president has seen fit to request my resignation as attorney general. In view of my high regard for the office he holds, and the high regard I have for the office of attorney general, as well as my self-respect, I shall promptly comply with his request."

After declaring "the department of justice at this moment is at the peak of its strength and efficiency," Mr. Daugherty said: "Those who for reasons of their own have seen fit to make attacks upon it have not even made a dent in it."

"A peculiar situation," he said, "has moved the president to consider asking my resignation to be the wisest course for him to pursue. I do not agree with the president in this matter, which is the first in which I ever disagreed with him, but he is the president of the United States and his wish in regard to retention of a member of his cabinet must be acceded to."

"No official act of mine, attorney general will ever be found to have been performed except with good conscience and influenced only by the merits of the cause upon which I acted."

To United States attorneys Mr. Daugherty said: "As the head of this great department of the government I am proud of our achievements."

To United States marshals he said: "I am particularly proud of the record made during the railroad strike of 1922, and am sure you can with reason share in this pride."

ceive guests and gifts. The nationalists, however, are angered by the imprisonment of Hitler, believing that he should have been acquitted also.

It is understood that Bavaria intends to request Ludendorff to move to some other state as the result of his revolutionary endeavors, but the general's election to the reichstag seems virtually assured.

Beer Cellar Putsch.

The trial at Munich occupied more than a month, and much of the testimony was taken behind closed doors. A strong feeling in favor of Ludendorff, who made no attempt to hide his nationalistic beliefs, marked the entire proceedings.

The former field marshal, in a remarkable oration on the witness stand last week, declared that the judges themselves sat "before the judgment of history, which does not send men who fought for the fatherland to a fortress, but to a valhalla."

His speech was full of self-praise and his description of himself was "the victor of Tannenberg and other big battles—a representative of the old army which was crowned with everlasting fame."

The revolt for which the men were tried has been called the "Beer Cellar Putsch," as it was before a gathering of Bavarian government officials in the Burgerbrau Keller that Hitler and his followers suddenly appeared on the night of November 8, fired shots to obtain silence and dramatically announced the overthrow of the government, proclaiming a dictatorship over the entire country with Hitler at the head of the government and Ludendorff as commander-in-chief of the army. Poelner was to be premier of Bavaria.

Ludendorff was quoted at the time in press dispatches as declaring that he would not finish in his new task, even should it mean another war with France, as Bavaria could immediately put 300,000 fully equipped men in the field. "The dictatorial" government, however, had no opportunity to try its hand. The central government at Berlin, described by Hitler as "Marxian" and "Semitic," refused to take the situation seriously and the Bavarian dictator, Dr. von Kahr, repudiated his resignation, to the movement, which he declared was given under compulsion.

After 24 hours of great excitement, during which the Hitlerites held the war ministry building, General von Lossow's reichswehr troops were brought into play and Hitler's faithful legions, which he had patterned after the Italian fascists, melted away with but brief resistance. Ludendorff was apprehended but allowed to stay at his own villa under parole, while Hitler led the Bavarian authorities a lengthy chase before he was finally captured and immured in a fortress with a stolid guard who could not be seduced from their duty by his famous "magnetic personality."

TAX CUT, BONUS WILL BE PASSED

Washington, April 1.—Assurance that the tax reduction bill would be passed this session and prediction that the soldier bonus bill would be enacted into law were made today by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee as leaders of both parties and President Coolidge centered attention on the legislative program.

Senator Smoot told the senate the tax bill probably would be ready to be reported by Saturday. A drawn-out discussion with Secretary Mellon today on the tax bill forced over until tomorrow conclusion of the hearing of the treasury secretary before the finance committee.

Mr. Mellon was asked particularly to present his views on the estate tax, which was increased by the house and which is opposed by many senators to the country that there had been no necessary delay in handling the measure. The Massachusetts senator asserted that all possible speed had been employed by the committee insofar as members of his party were concerned, and Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the democratic leader, stated the position of the party, in outlining a legislative program, by calling for quick action on both the revenue and bonus bills.

Delay Predicted. President Coolidge took a hand during the day in the senate legislative situation, discussing programs with several senators at individual conferences. He was said to favor immediate action on the revenue bill, in view of which he believes will give an impetus to business if modeled along the lines of the Mellon plan.

Senator Smoot's declaration of the size of the tax bill was prompted by an appeal from Senator Walsh, democratic Massachusetts, a member of the finance committee, to the senate to the country that there had been no necessary delay in handling the measure. The Massachusetts senator asserted that all possible speed had been employed by the committee insofar as members of his party were concerned, and Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the democratic leader, stated the position of the party, in outlining a legislative program, by calling for quick action on both the revenue and bonus bills.

Estimates on both the bonus and tax bills will be placed before the finance committee tomorrow when the hearing of Secretary Mellon is concluded. Before taking up the remaining miscellaneous rate schedules, it is estimated that the bill will be reported by the committee by Saturday.

Can Over-Ride Bonus Veto. Mr. Smoot predicted there would be no veto of the bonus bill to override a presidential veto of the bonus bill and therefore he declared the committee would probably have to include the annual cost of this measure in considering tax reduction. The cost of the bonus bill passed by the house has been determined definitely. DAUGHTERY DELAY IN INDIAN FRAUD

by the committee into reports that special agents of the departments of justice had busied themselves in looking up the record of Senator Wheeler. Emmett Dougherty, a special assistant attorney general, insisted he had been in Montana recently looking up liquor complaints, but denied having interviewed Senator Wheeler.

Peck said that in four years' experience as United States attorney he had never known of another case in which the attorney general took such personal interest. Acceptance of the guilty plea in the criminal cases was decided on, the witness said, despite his recommendations that "penitentiary sentences" be demanded.

The committee indicated it would get from the files of the department of justice and the United States attorney's office in Oklahoma copies of the letters and messages in this case bearing Daugherty's signature.

"I would not agree to anything which would relieve George L. Miller of a jail sentence," said the witness. He received orders from the attorney general, he continued, to make no recommendations to the court as to sentences and to dismiss the charges against the Miller brothers. The committee indicated it would get from the files of the department of justice and the United States attorney's office in Oklahoma copies of the letters and messages in this case bearing Daugherty's signature.

The United States judge in sentencing them said he made the penalties because the government would undoubtedly bring civil suits to recover the lands for the Indians. Peck said, "and for that reason the penalty would be adequate. However, the civil suits were never brought. The Miller brothers are still in possession of the land. Oil has been discovered on it in several places."

Peck said he had no personal knowledge as to why the civil suits were not pushed. He wrote a report to the department of justice, he said, saying that Oklahoma people felt the Miller brothers were able to escape the consequences of illegal acts because of political and financial influence.

Counsel for Daugherty asked if a recovery suit in the Miller case was not "in course of preparation." "That would be news to me," Peck replied.

Fall's Counsel Named.

Peck agreed that suits to recover the funds could be brought at any time without reference to any statute of limitations. Counsel then declared that Edwin S. Booth, a special assistant attorney general, started ten days ago to investigate again the Miller brothers' case.

"That's the same Booth who was solicitor to former Secretary of the Interior Fall," asked Senator Wheeler. "He is," Peck said.

Senator Wheeler asked if a man named Peck, former law partner of Mr. Daugherty, "hadn't been working on the case. Peck refused to say, remarking the report 'was hearsay'."

Asked by Chairman Brookhart to suggest witnesses the committee might call in the Miller case, Peck again named Senator Harold who, he said, had taken a deep interest.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, asked Peck if the net result of the transactions described did not mean that the Miller brothers obtained land worth a quarter of a million or more for "a $10,000 fine."

"That's it," said Peck. "What was the price originally paid by the Miller brothers for these lands and the Indians?" Senator Ashurst asked.

Peck explained that the Miller brothers used "store accounts" to charge against each Indian, making an exact computation difficult. The witness then left the stand.

Wayne Wilson Called.

Wayne Wilson, of New York, named by J. Van Vleet (Oleott), as having suggested to Oleott a payment for "the boys" in connection with a proposal that Oleott seek a federal judgeship in New York, died today, it was learned, "made any such statement at all."

Wilson described conversations with Oleott regarding the judgeship, and said he also "saw" certain district political leaders seeking endorsement for Oleott.

Chairman Brookhart repeated Oleott's story to the witness, saying that Oleott had said $10,000 was demanded from him in consideration for an appointment to the judgeship.

"Nothing like that was said," Wilson asserted. "What was said about money to Oleott?" asked Senator Wheeler. "The witness said that when he talked had suggested it might be 'an expensive campaign.'"

But he told Oleott, he added, that there was no reason for him to pay "a red cent." The suggestion of an "expensive campaign" was made to him, he said, by "Mr. Newell."

MILLER CHARGES POLITICAL BASE

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 1.—Declaring there was no fraud in his purchase of Indian land, George L. Miller, one of the owners of the 101 ranch, near Ponca City, Okla., today characterized the testimony of Emmett Dougherty, before the senate investigating committee as "untrue."

"Politics is at the bottom of all these charges," the ranchman charged. "To Peck's charge that the ranch books were so jumbled that it was difficult to ascertain the price paid for the land, Miller said a federal audit in 1920 shows 'just how much we paid, and Peck knows it.'"

Miller asserted the Indians received $39,836 for 3,108 acres.

ASK $150,000 CUT IN FINANCE SHEET

all non-profit-making educational and hospital institutions outside the city limits the industrial rate for water. The rate also will apply to Emory, Oglethorpe and Clarke universities.

Alderman J. R. Bachman, member of the finance committee and chairman of the water committee, on which the burden of rate reduction was placed, issued a statement after the meeting reviewing the city's financial situation and explaining the reasons which influenced council to adopt the prevailing water rates.

Bachman's Statement.

Alderman Bachman's statement follows:

It is common knowledge that the present water rate is one higher for small consumers than for the last six months of last year and 20c higher for large consumers. It is not difficult to understand that this increase imposes a heavy burden upon all water consumers, and it is a general rule. During the last six months of last year the rate was $1.10 per month for 800 cubic feet. About 10,000 of them actually used only 500 cubic feet under normal conditions. We are now charging them only $1.10 wherever they do not exceed the 500 cubic feet minimum. The rate for each 100 cubic feet excess if they run above the minimum. In the average small home where economy is practiced the quantity should not exceed 500 cubic feet.

The rates in effect during the last half of last year were yielding $126,000. It is estimated that the present rate will yield $1,027,088.19, or an increase of $904,088.19. From the standpoint of cost it is not believed the present rates can be justified and have always opposed the principle of taxing the people through a charge for service. The city government has certain constitutional limitations placed upon it in the matter of taxation and to procure revenue through taxation of these limited resources is a vicious practice, and it is resorted to at all certainly only dire emergency should be the result.

The 1924 council faced a situation of this character. The 1923 council had voted increases in salaries of policemen and firemen, the interest and sinking fund requirements had greatly increased and the account of bond sales in 1923, the growth of the city was breaking away from the proper functioning of governmental departments, the imperative need of the schools and greatly increased and the inadequate support of the health department demanded action at all hazards. Confronted with this situation the finance committee of council, charged with the duty of providing for these needs, after reducing all operating expenses to the lowest figure consistent with safety and efficiency, turned of necessity to the water rate as the only available source of increased revenue.

Naturally, increase in the burden the people must bear is not relished and there are those who think it might have been avoided. This class of citizens do not hesitate to criticize the action in strong terms. They are more severe in criticism than I believe they would be if they fully understood the facts. Indeed, they know how conscientious and faithfully their servants are trying to work out the problem incident to the life of our rapidly growing city. I believe their criticism would turn to sympathy and constructive advice.

I am informed that some have visited their country upon the water department. It should be said in simple justice to the department and the committee in charge of it that it had absolutely nothing to do with the increase, did not recommend or even suggest an increase nor fix its measure. In common with all of us the department deplored the necessity for it. The increase was recommended by the finance committee of which I am chairman, was approved by the council, the aldermanic board and the mayor.

While this matter is being considered there are certain figures in which I believe everybody will be interested. The items of cost speak eloquently of the efficient, economic administration of the water works department.

VIOLENT EXPLOSION IN STROMBOLI CRATER

Rome, April 1.—(By the Associated Press).—A violent explosion occurred in the crater of the volcano of Stromboli, on the coast of Sicily, on March 28, it was announced in a communique from the royal meteorological bureau here today. Windows in the vicinity were shattered by the shock and fifteen persons were injured.

The volcano of Stromboli, sometimes called the "lighthouse of the Mediterranean" because of constantly throwing up flames, or a sort of illuminated vapor, without an emission of lava, occupies the center of the island of Stromboli, one of the Lipari group. It rises to about 3,040 feet above the sea.

$120,000 SHORTAGE FOUND IN ACCOUNT OF NAVY OFFICIAL

Washington, April 1.—Secretary Wilbur was advised today that Paymaster Ervin R. Brown, of Coronado, Cal., has been reported missing from the destroyer Somers and an examination of his accounts has disclosed a shortage of about $120,000. Paymaster Brown was given leave from the Somers at Mobile, Ala., on March 10. He failed to report when the destroyer left Mobile and wired his commanding officer from New Orleans asking permission to rejoin his ship at Jacksonville, Fla., March 16.

He did not appear at Jacksonville and when his accounts were examined, the shortage was discovered.

COOLIDGE TO SPEND SUMMER AT CAPITAL

Washington, April 1.—President Coolidge will spend the summer in Washington. This statement was made at the white house today in answer to inquiries whether the executive planned to accept any offers of summer homes. Business can be transacted in Washington more easily than at any place removed from the capital, in opinion of the president, and the slight difference in comfort is not one to be given any considerable thought.

He did not appear at Jacksonville and when his accounts were examined, the shortage was discovered.

WOOLWORTH BUILDING SOLD FOR $11,000,000

New York, April 1.—The Woolworth building, the world's tallest office structure, was sold for $11,000,000 today to the Woolco Realty company by the Broadway Park Place Realty corporation, a holding company for the heirs of the late F. W. Woolworth. The Woolco company, it was said, was especially incorporated by persons interested in the present F. W. Woolworth company to own and manage the building.

HOME, CHURCH, SCHOOL TO DISCUSS CHILD WORK

Cooperation of home, church and school in training children for life will be discussed Thursday at a luncheon conference of Parent-Teacher association presidents and citizenship chairmen and one minister representing each of the 50 white schools in Atlanta. The luncheon is to be served at the Commercial high school by the domestic science class of the school. Mrs. J. E. Andrews and Mrs. Howard McCutcheon, representing the Parent-Teacher Presidents club and the American citizenship committee of the organization, will preside. Mrs. J. C. McMillan, chairman of the citizenship committee, will be unable to attend because of illness.

Mrs. McCutcheon, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Clifford Walker, Mrs. Mary Wells, Father Walsh, Dr. Robert Orme Flynn, Dr. David Marr and Dr. Willis A. Sutton are included among the speakers. The Commercial high school orchestra, mandolin club and glee club will provide music.

4,200 AUTOISTS BUY TAGS ON FINAL DAY

More than 4,200 tags were sold Monday, the last day of the 30-day extension allowed auto owners in which to purchase their license tags for 1924.

Approximately 135,000 passenger cars and truck licenses have been sold for 1924, according to figures in the office of the automobile department of the secretary of state's office. Total sales for 1923 were 173,000. It is expected that the final total this year will go above the 200,000 mark.

Under the attorney general's interpretation of the law creating the new state revenue department, delinquent tag buyers will be subject to payment, through this department, after May 1, when a penalty of 20 per cent will be imposed on all who have failed to purchase their tags earlier.

ILLNESS CAUSES SCHOOL SYSTEM PAYROLL BOOST

Public school pay roll increase of nearly $5,000 a month from October 1923 to March 1924, as revealed in the March financial statement prepared by Comptroller E. Graham yesterday, was said by Superintendent of Schools, Willie A. Sutton to result from abnormal fluctuation in the number of teachers used during the month. Teachers are paid for time off during illness and an unusual amount of illness runs up the pay roll account in employment of supply teachers, he explained.

GEORGIA ASKS RETURN OF WILLIAM DECKER

Requisition papers, addressed to the governor of Florida, were issued by Governor Clifford Walker Tuesday, asking return to this state of William E. Decker, wanted in DeKalb county on an indictment charging cheating and swindling.

The request was made on petition of Robert C. W. Ramspeck, solicitor of the city court of Decatur. The offense with which Decker is charged is alleged to have been committed March 8. It is claimed that he placed a draft for $250 with the DeKalb Bank & Trust company on a Norfolk, Va., check, and then drew checks against this draft, which later was returned unpaid. Sheriff J. W. McDaniel, of DeKalb county, is named as the officer to go to Florida and bring Decker back to stand trial.

JEWS READY TO START PALESTINE CAMPAIGN

Preparations have been completed at the various Jewish community centers and clubs to start an intensive drive Thursday to raise funds for rebuilding Palestine as a Jewish homeland and cultural center.

Dr. Silverman, rabbi of the great Temple Emanuel in New York, will arrive in the afternoon to assist in the drive. He will be met at the station by a reception committee after which a conference of local rabbis and social leaders will be held at the Piedmont hotel. At night there will be a banquet at the Standard club on Sunday night, a mass meeting at the Forsyth theater.

The great interest attached to Dr. Silverman's visit lies in the fact that he has recently become a strong advocate of the Jewish Palestine foundation fund, after a visit to the Holy Land, where he saw the actual progress made by the men and women who have settled there.

There is some difference of opinion in Jewish circles as to the ultimate destiny of Palestine, but on one thing all groups are unanimous, and that is to find a place of refuge for the hundreds of thousands of unfortunate co-religionists who are living in dread of pogroms in the ghettos of Europe.

FINAL SERVICES HELD FOR JOHN J. EAGAN

The last funeral rites for John J. Eagan, widely known Atlanta philanthropist, who died in Asheville, N. C. Sunday afternoon, were held Tuesday afternoon in West View cemetery. Dr. Ben R. Lacy, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Eagan was an elder and superintendent of the Sunday school, was in charge.

Last Point public schools were closed Tuesday in honor of Mr. Eagan, who gave a site said to have been worth $25,000 for the school building. Because of the close association of Mr. Eagan and W. W. Orr, chairman of the board of the George Mason Clothing company, the Mason store also was closed Tuesday.

Mr. Eagan is survived by his widow and two children, William Russell Eagan and Anna Young Eagan; his mother, Mrs. Mary V. Eagan, and a sister, Mrs. Paul Brown.

Mr. Eagan developed large business interests, having taken over the enterprises of William R. Russell, his uncle. Mr. Eagan was born in Georgia in 1870. He was a guiding hand in the Men and Religion Forward Movement, launched in Atlanta in 1911, in which he was aided by Marcus Jackson. The Golden Rule policy in the American Cast Iron Pipe company, of which he is president, in Birmingham, caused Mr. Eagan to become known nationally, and the policy was said to have been the first step toward putting genuine Christian spirit into business as a practical operation.

Mr. Eagan never sought publicity in connection with his gifts and philanthropies, many beneficiaries of his generosity never to this day having learned the source of their help, his close friends said.

will be a visitor in Atlanta today and Thursday, according to advice received by the Southern South, Door and Millwork Manufacturers' association. While here Mr. Gately will confer with the lumber and millworking industries and all other wood using industries, in connection with a study his department is now making of the elimination and utilization of waste of lumber. He is desirous of reviewing the situation in the regard in Atlanta territory and will visit some of the typical local manufacturing plants while here.

Mr. Gately's visit is in connection with an extended trip he is now making through Georgia and Florida on behalf of the simplified practice branch of the department of commerce.

The executive offices of the Atlanta-Biltmore hotel were opened Tuesday on the mezzanine floor of the hotel. Since last August offices have been maintained at suite 1726-30 Candler building.

William Candler, vice president and treasurer of the Atlanta-Biltmore hotel company, will retain his downtown office at 1725 Candler building.

Mr. Skinner is an Ohio State university man, having worked his way through that school as a machinist in the shops of the university. Shortly after joining the organization of Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., Mr. Skinner supervised construction of the first controller (turned out by that company. He will speak here on "Crossing Bridges and Sealing Walls."

The affiliated engineering societies, which have been invited to hear this address, are: American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Chemical Society, American Association of Engineers and the Georgia section of the American Institute of Architects.

Quarters in Tower For City Stockade Prisoners Sought

An arrangement with the county commissioners to use the Fulton tower for city stockade prisoners after Girls' High school is opened is to be sought by the prison committee of the city council, it was decided Tuesday at the committee's first regular session of this year.

Renewal of prisoners from the present stockade was prompted by council when the Rosalia street site, opposite the prison, was selected for the new Girls' High school.

Plans for construction of a new stockade, for which $50,000 was appropriated in the January finance sheet, are being held up by disagreement among members of council as to the proper location for the stockade. Chairman Jenkins stated.

Plan Contagious Disease Hospital. A present social disease patients occupy about one-half of the stockade building. A $50,000 contagious disease hospital is planned for this year to provide new quarters for them. The location for the other prisoners is yet to be decided. Each ward delegation in council has voiced emphatic protest against building the stockade in its ward within the city limits and the wisdom of placing it on the city farm has been questioned by members of the prison committee. The farm is too far out for economical transportation of prison labor gangs into the city each day for work on the streets, it is contended.

In the meantime, work is advancing rapidly on the new Girls' High school and school officials expect it to be ready for occupancy before the end of October of this year. The new high school and the stockade building face each other from the tops of twin hills.

Methods of Discipline. Methods for disciplining prisoners and social disease patients were discussed at length by the committee but no instructions were given. Superintendent T. B. Lankford, members of the committee advising him to "use his own judgment."

Abolishment of the lash, Lankford said, has made control of stockade inmates difficult. Solitary confinement in wooden "dungeons" in which the prisoner cannot lie down at full length is the only method of discipline open to stockade authorities, he said, and this method is effective only in connection with a bread and water diet over a period of 24 hours or more.

INCREASE IN GAS EARNINGS IS SHOWN

Net earnings of the Atlanta Gas company for February, 1924, were $29,637.64, according to the monthly report filed Tuesday with the Georgia public service commission. Net earnings for February, 1923, were $25,969.67.

Gross revenue for the month is given as $292,332.70, against $199,419.36 for February, 1923. The actual consumption of gas showed an increase from 124,254,400 cubic feet in 1923 to 130,537,400 this year.

ATLANTA POPULATION GIVEN AS 276,500

Atlanta's present population is 276,500 persons, it was estimated Tuesday by W. Zode Smith, superintendent of waterworks.

His estimate was based on the number of meters now in service within the city limits and an estimated average of seven persons served by each meter.

The total number of meters, including 749 new ones since January 1, was 29,540 on April 1. Fifteen hundred additional meters are in service outside the city limits, including one which serves 104 families at the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, indicating a suburban population of 11,000 not included in any of the incorporated suburban cities which have waterworks of their own.

INCREASE IS SHOWN BY MARCH BUILDING

March building permits showed an advance of nearly a quarter million dollars in value over February, totaling $1,258,017, it was announced Tuesday from the office of Building Inspector C. J. Bowen. The bulk of the permits were for residence structures, homes for single families taking most of the permits. March of last year recorded issuance of $2,138,284 worth of permits.

CAMP OF NURSES AT GRADY DIVIDED ON BOBBED HAIR

Nurses at Grady hospital were divided Tuesday as to whether they will avail themselves of the privilege of wearing bobbed hair, following an order of the medical board granting the right. The board had been called upon to pass on this question of personal privilege, and took the matter up with all the earnestness of a staff of surgeons deliberating on an operation that might mean life and death.

The board had believed the demand for bobbed hair was backed by the power that goes with the convictions of the majority. Tuesday night a Constitution reporter learned that not more than half the staff of 46 nurses wanted bobbed hair. The reporter also learned that a great many of them don't care to discuss the question with newspapermen at all. The hospital is now a divided camp on the much-mentioned modern problem of to bob or not to bob.

Beveridge Added To Coolidge List For Justice Job

Washington, April 1.—President Coolidge has found that the task of finding a $100,000 lawyer who will take a $12,000 job as attorney general is not an easy one.

Latest indications are that Albert J. Beveridge, former senator from Indiana, and one of the foremost legal authorities of the country, is under consideration. He is a progressive and would satisfy many of those who want Judge William S. Kenyon as attorney general.

But Postmaster General Newcomb, not back with such favor on Beveridge and it is a question whether the president will bring the two hostile Indians together in his official family.

Pressure for appointment of Judge Kenyon is strong. Senator C. Vann Woodward, president of the senate, called at the white house Tuesday to endorse Kenyon. Coolidge is now a little reluctant to appoint Kenyon, feeling that he would be regarded as yielding too completely to the demands of the senate majority.

But Kenyon is not yet out of the running. As for Beveridge, no new names have been added to the list of those under consideration. A representative of the president said Tuesday that Coolidge is looking for a $100,000 man. The president wants a man who is capable of earning that amount in private practice, being able to do less able lawyer could uphold the high standard which should prevail in the department of justice.

Bandit Maid Out Hunting Proves Her Claws Are Real

New York, April 1.—The bob-haired girl bandit with the little black automatic pistol shot her first man Tuesday in an audacious raid on the offices of the National Biscuit company in Brooklyn, and got away. She and the man with her fled the place without carrying off the safe which stood open. A big limousine was waiting for them, the lawful driver lying in the rear of the tonneau, bound with picture wire. They got in, drove the limo, pulled up, entered a taxi, and merged with the millions as the car blattered off through the labyrinth of Brooklyn's streets, carrying them from the scene of confusion and fear.

Edison's office after this visit to the offices of the biscuit company, Nathan Mazza, the assistant cashier, was being wheeled into the operating room of a hospital with just a slight chance to survive two punctures in his abdomen made by point-blank shots from the woman's pistol.

The frightened chauffeur of the limousine kicked out the glass of one of the doors shortly after being abandoned in the street and attracted a crowd of who released him. He then went to the nearest police station and filed there in some of the details of the bob-haired bandit's latest and most serious crime.

As for his rescue, as Arthur West explained that he works for a motor company and that he had been summoned by phone to a hotel in the theatrical district Monday morning to take a man and woman for an apartment hunt in Brooklyn. Their ride took them slowly past the biscuit company's plant.

Dismissing West for the day, they paid him liberally and asked him to come again Tuesday as they wished to purchase the limo. He did, and when the limo had driven to a secluded spot in Prospect park, Brooklyn, the woman put a gun to his head, ordered him to stop, and helped the man to get out.

They then placed him in the rear of the car and the man took the wheel for the drive to the scene of the enterprise.

Mazza was shot because he grabbed the woman's wrist as she herded the office staff of the biscuit company into an ante-room of the office at the point of her pistol. Her companion, with a revolver, was assisting in the roundup.

Her voice was soft and musical. Her figure was slight and flapperish. Her eyes were shaded by a veil but seemed pretty. Her bobbed hair permitted below her black turban. Mazza permitted himself to be deceived for an instant and clutched the bandit's arm, trying to drag her into the ante-room with the employees, disarming her, slam the door on her male companion and capture her.

With a screech of unexpected strength the girl broke Mazza's grip, slammed him through the door, pulled it shut and then fired twice through the thin panel, hitting him with both shots.

amateurish characteristics which Frances Wylie, Elzard Horton, Moore Pearson and Godfrey McDonald found in their comedy skit—one of the vaudeville high lights.

If all goes off smoothly, we said, it will well planned, the skit will be a success. If those people we see every day and like very much, it's the merriest thing Atlanta has had in many a moon—and it's all for charity, just as are all the great things the league does in this good city of ours.

If you are in any way desirous of becoming a fit subject for the all-star, candid advice to you is—just miss still in dancing there.

Mrs. Eugene Harrington is chairman of the carnival committee, the grand-dame, et al., and a might fine one, and others who have been particularly active as chairladies are Miss Lucy Candler, tickets; Mrs. Julian Thomas, the dance hall; Mrs. Grover, Middlebrooks, corrections; Mrs. M. Hines Gansaulis, properties; Mrs. William Campbell, booths; Mrs. Carroll McGeehan, telephones; Mrs. Edwin Peoples, talent; Mrs. Lela Warren, Jr., publicity; Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, advertising; Mrs. Gilmore Green, drinks; Mrs. Jack Dismore, president of the senior league.

to every last one of them Atlanta owes its thanks for the opportunity it gives Atlanta's people to have a wonderful time and work for charity, all at once.

And there's a pretty dance hall where the Rainbow orchestra perpetually plays the strains of the most modern and best dance music—always ready and waiting for those of the operators who wish to fling themselves into the pleasure of a dance or sit to good music and in merry surroundings. There's a putting green where golfers steadily strive to make the contrary little apple sink with that resounding "plunk" they love so well.

There's a country store, over which "Red" Watkins, a snicker, was doing his most effective historical stuff; Kirk Smith and Bernard Boskin were helping get rid of something else; college Adams and Jack Dismore were doing casual city happenings into the one of Abou Abdallah Ashkahn, that Hindu mystifier who holds a lady half in two before the puzzled eyes of all beholders.

But take out those men's names—they don't belong in this yarn.

Socialist Disorder Breaks Up Session Of French Chamber

Paris, April 1.—A disorderly demonstration by socialist members forced suspension of the French chamber of deputies Tuesday, when tumult followed the declaration of Deputy Gaborit that Germany was counting on a change in French policy after the coming elections.

The deputies declared that German troops are now founded on the belief that Germany was counting on a change in French policy after the coming elections.

After order had been restored and the session resumed, Deputy Forezat demanded that Premier Poincare explain in detail what he thinks of the serious problem, the cost of living, the fact that the exchange rate is 80 francs to the pound, the position of the bloc national and the bloc radical, and the status of the occupation of the Ruhr.

The explanation will enlighten those who, despite everything, desire to follow him. Forezat told the premier.

Poincare said he was willing to reply immediately, but thought it would be impossible to give the explanation all in one evening.

TWO SLAIN, 1 HURT, $300,000 STOLEN IN STREET HOLDUP

Montreal, April 1.—A bank employee and a bandit were killed this afternoon and another bank employee was slightly wounded when eight masked men opened fire on a motor car and stole funds being transferred to the central office of the Bank of Montreal.

Bank officials said they believed the car was carrying $300,000. How much bandits obtained has not been learned, but the police recovered $10,000 from the wreck of the men's machine which in its flight struck a telephone pole and overturned. In the car also was the body of one of the bandits.

Dry Agents Go On Jamboree Play Havoc as April Fools

New York, April 1.—The blizzard blizzed so hard here that only a few April fool jokes were reported and most of them were cranked by prohibition agents—or perpetrated by them.

There was a car in the B. & O. freight yards on Staten Island, marked plainly, "F-I-S-I-E." It was a good joke because the car, you see, contained 100 barrels of beer, and no fish at all. Failing to enter the spirit of the day, the enforcers opened the car and confiscated the jovial contents.

Another joker had put a few hundred dollars' worth of alcohol in a car consigned to Fort Wayne, Ind., but the agents cranked that one, too.

But other agents were more than equal to the task. Three put on dress suits and, looking just like gentlemen, visited the Clifton cafe. The joke developed when

FLOOD OF BURGLARIES REPORTED TO POLICE

Numerous burglaries were reported to the police Tuesday night. No arrests have been made in any of the cases.

L. S. Bragg, 236 West Fourteenth street, lost $100 worth of clothing at the hands of two negroes who are believed to be on the point of arrest.

A diamond ring was stolen from an office at 712 Fourth National Bank building, J. N. Patrick, Jr., 27 Bell avenue, reported the theft of a gold watch from his home. A H. Gay, 111 West Cain street, was minus valuable clothing and a bank book. T. A. Hammond, 509 Grant avenue, suffered the loss of a watch valued at $110 and gold chain valued at $35. T. Wooten, West Sixth street, a suit of clothes; Sheriff Manning, 106 Cherokee avenue, an overcoat and papers.

Miss Fleta Coleman, 53 Ponce de Leon avenue, lost $50 at the hands of pick pockets on a Piedmont avenue street car.

After three years of work Mrs. B. Chambers, of Chicago, has completed a beautiful tapestry, which shows George Washington in a library. More than 300,000 stitches of wool and silk were required to complete the work.

RICHMOND REPUBLICANS PLEDGE COOLIDGE AID

Augusta, Ga., April 1.—President Coolidge was saluted, their support pledged to him, 24 delegates to the state convention at Atlanta elected at a meeting here last night of republicans in Richmond county.

George Brown, of 647 Lee street, driver of a car for the Atlanta Safety Bus company, was held up and robbed of about $30 and his watch late Tuesday night by two white men at Eleventh and Peachtree streets. Brown said. He drove his bus in the city limits where he told the men that was as far as he goes. One of the men drew a pistol and forced Brown to drive about a mile further, where they robbed his pockets and made him turn around and drive towards the city. The men fled after ordering Brown to get on.

Call Officers Barker and Hewell are investigating.

Fireman Killed, 2 Hurt in Blaze

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 1.—Two women guests were probably fatally injured tonight and a fireman is reported dead in a fire which has destroyed the Livingston hotel and is threatening an entire business block. The two women jumped from the sixth story despite pleas of firemen who were raising ladders.

The fireman fell from the roof of the Grand Rapids Herald building, adjoining the hotel. Shortly after the fire started employees of the hotel, a morning newspaper, were driven from their building.

The hotel burst into flames, followed by a terrific roar believed to have been caused by an explosion. The flames spread so quickly it was impossible to ascertain whether all the guests in the hotel escaped.

Upshaw Praises Smith, Wilbur For Stand on Law

Washington, April 1.—Secretary Wilbur and Governor Smith of New York, were praised in the house today by Representative Upshaw, democrat, Georgia, for their position in law enforcement.

The Georgia member, who is an ardent dry, also urged the New York congressional delegation to join Governor Smith and himself in a campaign to make New York city "dry" that a man would have to prime himself to spit.

The naval secretary, Mr. Upshaw said, had declared in a public address that "true benefits" of the eighteenth amendment could "only be obtained through persistent efforts of all citizens."

Mr. Upshaw asserted that, although he did not always agree with the "government of New York in some things," he wished to compliment Mr. Smith for his statement that it is "the duty of all men to stand for law enforcement." Mr. Upshaw added that he only regretted the governor "had not gone all the way in this manner."

SHOE STORE FIRE CAUSED NO LOSS, STATES MANAGER

Fire, believed to have originated from defective electric wiring, in Burt's Shoe store, Whitehall and Alabama streets, Monday night, caused no damage to the stock or fixtures, the manager stated Tuesday night. The flames were extinguished immediately after the fire started.

VON STROHEIM IS FINED FOR REGISTERING RAGE

Los Angeles, Cal., April 1.—Eric von Stroheim, motion picture director, was fined $20 for contempt of court when he registered rage while testifying yesterday in an effort to obtain a reduction in alimony payments for his former wife, May von Stroheim. Interrupted by counsel, he flared up with an "I'll smash your face." His honor flared up with "that statement takes a $50 fine."

MINES CLOSE PENDING AGREEMENT ON WAGES

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 1.—Practically all union coal mines in the Chattanooga district have closed down, pending an agreement on a new wage scale, the miners demanding the 1919 scale be continued while the operators are contending for the 1917 wage. The shutdown is not expected to have any serious effect on local consumers at this time, there being sufficient supply of coal on hand to last for some time.

Club Leaders Pledge Aid To Women Voters' League

Hugh Willet, Julian Boehm, Joe Logan, J. B. Conyers, Daniel Cohen, A. A. LeVatte and Louis Marquardt, representing civic organizations, were guests of honor at the League of Women Voters' luncheon Tuesday at the Peacock cafe.

The purpose of the luncheon was to establish a contact between the league and other civic organizations and to ask their cooperation in the membership drive the league is putting on during the week of April 7-12, which includes securing 200 men as sustaining members of the league, and 1000 women.

Each of the guests expressed interest in the league's principles. J. C. Logan was principal speaker of the occasion. He said that the league holds a unique position in the community and offers to both men and women a wonderful opportunity of reorganizing politics.

Each of the guests made his contribution to the discussion. Louis Marquardt pointed out the parallel interests of the trades unions and the league and said he felt that the Federation of Trades would be in sympathy with the program of the league, closing by saying, "I am with you all the way."

Mr. Cohen, of the Civilians, urged that the league present its program before every men's organization in Atlanta.

Mr. Conyers, representing the American Legion, drew a close analogy between the patriotic duty of casting a ballot in peace time with that of donning a uniform in time of war.

Mr. Boehm reiterated his continued interest in the league, which he has shown since its organization four years ago.

Mrs. Haynes McFadden and Mrs. A. R. Brittain added a charming touch of lightness in their short talks.

The closing speaker was Hugh Willet, who spoke with his accustomed ardent interest in all that is best for the city.

SCHOOLS DUE $700,000 ASSERTS DR. BALLARD

Dr. N. H. Ballard, state superintendent of schools, in an article appearing in the current issue of Georgia State School Items, charges that a constitutional fund of $7,200,000 intended for the schools is being diverted regularly to other departments at the capitol. He also states that the state now owes the schools more than $700,000, which the department probably never will get, because the money has been appropriated for other purposes.

Dr. Ballard also points out that every janitor employed by the state gets twice the average salary paid to white school teachers of Georgia. Each of these janitors also, he adds, is paid weekly, while the school teachers are forced, frequently, to wait months before receiving their pay checks.

In his article, Dr. Ballard says, in part:

Are Due $700,000. From semi-official sources it is found that should the schools get their just share of the amount appropriated to them by the legislature, it would be in excess of $700,000. Will the schools get this money? There is no question but that they need it. Contracts have been made on the assumption that they would get it—but will it be paid? I am sure the governor is honest in this matter, and is going to do all he can, now, to pay at least a part of it. But, can he? Has he not started too late? Funds once paid out can never be paid again. The water that flows from the school will not turn the same wheel again. This fund can only be paid out of the 1923 revenue. When this year's revenue is fully in, and it is found that the schools are already behind for other purposes, can it then be paid to the schools?

Is not the whole system wrong, that subjects the schools to this law? Are not the schools as important as any other department of state? Should the children of Georgia be the only losers in this financial game? Should they, alone, suffer? The common school system came into the capital as an unwelcome baby—the state, it did give, until it is presumed to have one-half of the state's revenue. Is this child still unwelcome? Is there still discrimination against him—now almost grown? Let us see.

Does Not Get Money. The legislature annually appropriates $7,200,000 in addition to the $4,250,000 to the office of the state superintendent of schools. Part of this is appropriated in obedience to a constitutional mandate. Does the department of education get this money? Not one cent of it comes to this department. It is diverted to other departments of the capitol. If this is the case, does it not deny the legislature the right to appropriate money to the department of education? They tell me that it should be differently worded. Read the general appropriation act and tell me how the general assembly could possibly have put it in phrasing language.

Again, on January 1, practically every obligation of the state had been paid except the school teachers' and only one-tenth of this had been paid—and that on December

MAYOR SEEKS FUNDS FOR STREET PROJECTS

Faced with the handicap of insufficient funds in both city and county treasuries, Mayor Walter A. Sims was striving Tuesday to find ways and means to carry out three street improvement projects he had planned to put through this year in order to provide new cross-town traffic arteries.

The projects are for repaving Ponce de Leon avenue, Butler and Cortland streets. The Ponce de Leon project is doubly handicapped by the unwillingness of a majority of property owners to agree to paying for the cost under the baby bond plan and the assumed inability of the Georgia Railway and Power company to pave the right-of-way which it owns in the middle of the street.

A new grade established by ordinance for Cortland street would cost, according to Chief of Construction William A. Hansell, not less than $250,000 in addition to paving costs. Butler street property owners have not been able to muster a majority to agree to paying under the baby bond plan.

Hotel Men Will Give "Welcome Home" Party For Return of Houser

Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta convention here, likewise secretary of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, will be the guest of honor at a "welcome home" party of the Atlanta and Georgia Hotel Men's associations at 10 o'clock Thursday.

A. R. Moody, manager of the Wine-coff hotel, will be host at the party. Secretary Houser returned to Atlanta last Saturday after an extended tour of South America. Thursday he will tell something of his experiences and will report to the Hotel Men's association on hotel conditions in South America.

PRICE yet quality

WE have a pardonable pride in the enviable reputation we have built for the high quality of Byrd printing. It is not the result of a few good jobs, but of a continuous high grade product for over thirty-seven years.

Strange as it may seem, this very reputation is sometimes a handicap.

For many buyers of printing believe that because of this high quality our prices are correspondingly high.

This is an erroneous impression, for while we have been building an organization for quality, we have not overlooked the important necessity of economical production. We have demonstrated that fine printing, if intelligently laid out and started, can be produced as cheaply as ordinary printing.

It's all in knowing how.

Furthermore, we have equipped our plant with the most modern labor saving machinery, which materially reduces cost of production in every department.

These items, together with the large volume of work which is continuously flowing through our plant, reduces our cost of production to the minimum. For these reasons we are enabled to offer you

Lovely Birthday Dinner Is Given at Stanton Home

Frank and Val Stanton entertained at a birthday dinner Tuesday evening at their home on Highland avenue in compliment to their mother, Mrs. Frank L. Stanton, Miss Edwilda Horton and Edwin Turman, whose birthdays fall on April 1.

For a number of years it has been a custom in the Stanton and Turman families to celebrate jointly the birthdays of the members of the two families which occur on April 1. The late Samuel B. Turman's birthday also fell on that date.

The guests were seated for dinner at a beautifully appointed table decorated entirely in peach blossoms. A mound of the flowers adorned the center of the table and single sprays were placed at intervals over the handsome lace cover. The candles were of a delicate shade of pink and the place of the Maccabees will hold a regular meeting at the K. P. hall, Forsyth building, Thursday, April 3, at 2:30 p. m. All reviews are specially invited to attend in honor of Mrs. Margaret Littleton, deputy supreme com-

Mrs. Blankinburg Visits Atlanta.

Mrs. Fred R. Blankinburg, president of the Stonewall Jackson chapter, U. D. C., of San Diego, Cal., was a visitor in the city Friday as the guest of Mrs. E. B. Williams, of Fulton chapter, U. D. C.

Mrs. Blankinburg has made an extended tour of the east and visited all the points of interest in the southern states. Mrs. Williams entertained a party of six at a luncheon on Friday, the guests of honor being Mrs. Blankinburg and Hollins N. Randolph, president of Stone Mountain Memorial association.

The party spent the afternoon at Stone Mountain. Mrs. Blankinburg returned to San Diego Friday evening.

Mrs. Hannahan Will Speak.

Mrs. G. P. Hannahan, prominent speaker on the subject of children and education, will feature the program Thursday morning at the Epiphany parish parent-teacher meeting at the parish house on Cleburne avenue in Inman Park at 10:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Hannahan is an experienced and noted educator, and is also a most entertaining speaker. Epiphany parish is exceedingly fortunate in being able to obtain her services for its meeting, as she will prove not only delightful as a speaker, but invaluable as a source of information. Her subject is "Your Child and Mine: Its Relationship to the Community."

Smith College Club Honors Alumnae Head at Luncheon

Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence Clarke, a distinguished visitor from North Carolina, and a prominent alumna of Smith college, was honor guest at the luncheon given Tuesday by the Smith College club at the home of Mrs. Frank Neely, on Piedmont avenue. Jaspis and white hydrangeas decorated the attractive room, these colors carrying out those of Smith college. The guests were seated at individual tables, which were overlaid with exquisite lace cloths, and adorned the center were silver vases holding yellow and white blossoms. The confectores, ice and cakes were arranged in the yellow and white color motif.

Miss Massengale Will Celebrate Seventh Birthday

The first of a number of Easter parties to be given will be the party Thursday afternoon given by Mrs. William N. Massengale at her home on East Linden avenue. The occasion will celebrate the seventh birthday of Miss Virginia Massengale, young daughter of Mrs. Massengale, who will celebrate her seventh birthday.

A delightful program has been arranged for the enjoyment of the little guests. Another interesting feature of the afternoon will be the dog hunt provided for the children. Prizes and favors of miniature blue baskets filled with yellow mints will be given and the decorations will be in keeping with the season.

The guest list will include eighteen little friends of the honor guest, who are: Dorothy Johnson, Sara McDonald, Bernice McMillen, Jane Ahlers, Clio O'Dell, Betty Bob Williams, Kathleen Turner, Suzanne Kren, Susan Lancaster, Verlin Kimball, Edward Holbert, Hugh Lancaster, Bob Morton Johnson, Eugene Adams, Warner Hume and Guy Norton.

The queen of Spain, is said to spend from $15,000 to $20,000 a year on her wardrobe.

Miss Murray Tells Atlanta Women of Vah-Dah Eye Cream

The advantages of Vah-Dah eye cream, one of the famous Quinlan toilet preparations, are being explained at Rick's toilet goods department this week by Miss Murray, personal and charming representative of Miss Quinlan, who will tell Atlanta's beautiful and fastidious women of the famous eye treatment as it is given in the New York salon.

Vah-Dah eye cream is especially compounded to erase stubborn brown freckles, crows' feet, and laughing lines and is to be applied after cleansing the face and washing the eyes with Eye Bath, another Quinlan preparation. The cream is applied by using the second and third fingers and pressing the cream beneath the eyes, by lifting it into the skin with a gentle patting and pressing movement. The next step is to close the eyes and apply it over the lids and beneath the brows in the same manner.

Miss Murray urges the application of Quinlan's Vah-Dah eye cream before retiring so that it may be left overnight.

Three of Europe's queens still retain titles—Queen Marie of Romania, Queen Sophia of Greece and Queen Maud of Norway.

Camp Fire Girls Organize Class In Handicraft

One of the most delightful features of the program which is being put on in Atlanta by the Camp Fire Girls organization is the handicraft class which is conducted by Miss Mary Olive Whitehead, handicraft expert. The class meets on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at Camp Fire headquarters, 415 Chamber of Commerce, and is composed of one or more representatives from each Camp Fire group in the city.

For the past two weeks the lessons have been on basketry. Each member of the class has home home a finished basket as the result of the first lessons. Many and varied are the baskets that are made in the large Camp Fire club room, each one expressing the individuality and preference of the young weaver. Baskets of every conceivable shape and size are in the collection, graceful hanging baskets for ray flowers, charming fern receptacles, serviceable sewing baskets, fruit bowls, sandwich trays, delicately woven little baskets that fit flat against the wall, big bulky ones for scrap paper, enameled ones for bedrooms, stained ones for living rooms; and one and all, they are most attractive.

There will be only one more class which will be devoted to basketry. After that, Miss Whitehead plans to let the girls try their skill and ingenuity at wood blocking, interior decoration, batik, leather work, modeling, and stenciling. The best specimens of the work done in the Camp Fire class of handicraft will be selected by the instructor and included in the exhibit which is to be at the Woman's club in the near future.

The Camp Fire program has seven crafts upon which it puts particular emphasis. The crafts represent broadly the significant things in every girl's life, the home, health, outdoor life, citizenship, a knowledge of nature and of earning one's daily bread, and the making of beautiful things with the hands. It is for purpose of following the last craft, the making of beautiful things with the hands, that the class under Miss Whitehead's instruction has been instituted in Atlanta.

Grant Park Chapter To Hold Meeting

Grant Park chapter No. 178, O. E. S., will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening, April 3, in Grant Park Masonic temple, corner Grant and Glenwood, at 7:30 o'clock. A musical and literary program has been arranged for the entertainment and in honor of the fourth anniversary. There will be work in the degrees. All members of the order are cordially invited to come and enjoy the evening with us.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Tea Stains on Linen—Thoroughly saturate a soft cloth with glycerine and rub on the tea stained linen. Then launder as usual and all troublesome marks will disappear.

New Potatoes—The new potatoes are coming in and a reminder that a small amount of baking soda dissolved in the water in which the potatoes are cleaned will cause them to scrape much more quickly.

The Care of Shoes—If you are annoyed and therefore wear the same pair of shoes all day, don't forget to give them a good airing at night and an occasional powdering of boracic acid. Your feet will feel the difference this treatment produces.

A Crocheting Tip—When crocheting the end of a night gown yoke, hold a strong piece of crocheted cotton close to the edge and work over this as you go along. It will prevent a nasty break in the yoke from slipping over the head hastily, as we all are prone to do.

Scandinavian Music To Be Presented By Music Club

A program devoted to the music of Scandinavia will be presented to the Atlanta Music club this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Mrs. Jane M. Mattingly will be chairman and assisting her will be Mrs. Charles Downman, Miss Ethel Beyer, Mrs. Benjamin Elsas, Miss Eda Bartholomew, Alex Kesse, Edward Richter.

The complete program will be: "Traditional Folk songs, led by Miss Helen Knox Spain."

"Development of Music in Scandinavia"—Mrs. Jane M. Mattingly.

"Pia of 12"—Miss Mrs. Downman.

"The Shepherd Lassie's Lament" (Ole Bull).

"There Cried a Rose" (Sinding).

Bible Class Gives Banquet at Church.

An interesting event of Monday evening was a banquet given by the young ladies' Bible class of Westminster Presbyterian church.

A recent attendance contest was held between the blue and gold sides of the class, and the blues being the losing side, they entertained the golds. The ladies' husbands were also invited.

Mrs. J. W. Caldwell, wife of Dr. J. W. Caldwell, pastor of the church, is the teacher of this class, and Mrs. E. C. Kent is president.

The decorations were effectively carried out in blue and gold. Baskets of jonquills alternating with yellow candles holding unshaded blue tapers adorned the banquet table. Tiny blue baskets held yellow mints.

Willis M. Everett, Mrs. Van Fleet, Mrs. Norman Hensley, W. N. Massengale and J. E. Adams gave original toasts, Mrs. Kent being toastmistress.

Mrs. William N. Massengale had charge of the program and presented a most enjoyable one.

Mrs. Bess Merrell Smith, contralto, sang a group of songs with Mrs. D. E. Ahlers at the piano. Miss Wall, of the Eastlack school of expression, gave two readings. Harry Pomar sang a group of songs and one of his own composition. Drew Walters gave two numbers on the Hawaiian guitar. Thomas Dendy sang several songs with Signor E. Volpi at the piano.

Beauty Chats

BY EDNA KENT FORBES

HOLD THE HEAD UP.

If you will learn the proper way of holding your head you will probably find the rest of your body falling naturally into a good position. It is impossible for you to go about in too round-shouldered an attitude if you carry your head well up as it should be.

Here, for instance, is a picture of the average woman today. The neck is thrust forward until the face is in a line almost over the toes, the shoulders are forward so that if a rod were put across her chest from shoulder to shoulder the chest would probably be back a few inches. This position makes the spine curve outward from shoulder to shoulder, it also makes the abdomen prominent; indeed, in real life it often thrusts it ahead of the chest exactly as it does in modern fashion plates. It also makes the waistline go higher in the front than the back.

And I think that modern fashion pictures are entirely to blame, for the artists take up an attitude which a few Paris houses say is to be the thing that season and feature it in their drawings until some other sought-after dress designer decides that women shall stand in a different attitude. As for the women, consciously or unconsciously, they copy the pose of the live mannequins or those in the fashion pictures. And, unfortunately, it is always easier to copy a bad habit than a good one.

Stand in front of a mirror and hold your head up. The rest of your body will straighten itself slightly as a result. Hold your chest up as high as you can get it, and your shoulders, back and abdomen will go naturally into a proper and healthy position. At first you may look and feel as stiff as a wooden soldier but after a few minutes of critical study you will find the most graceful and most natural looking position. And though your clothes may be designed for the modern slouchy lines you will be surprised how much better they look when your figure is held upright.

Ki Ki—After soaking the feet in hot water until the skin is softened, go over the top of the corn with a pumice stone, but do this carefully so that you in no way increase the sensitivity of the toe. Never try to remove a corn yourself, unless you can do so by repeated treatments such as the above, when the worst of the callous is removed so the corn finally disappears. The best way is to have a chiropodist remove it.

Learn to manicure your nails, and once a week will be enough for that work; if you give them a little extra care each day this will only take about five minutes or even less. Rub a little oil into them after you have been immersing the hands in water for a long time.

Tomorrow—Exercise for the complexion.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

The Half-Time Wife

BY VIOLET DARE

CHAPTER III
"You Belong to Me."

Sunday morning breakfast was an institution at the Atwoods'. Their colored cook was famous for her waffles, corn bread and coffee, and every Sunday during the season Geoffrey Atwood presided over a breakfast party at which the city's notables gathered.

Debutantes, their mothers and fathers; visiting dignitaries, everybody who was anybody, was delighted to be present. The dining room, with cedar logs burning in its two great fireplaces, was crowded at eleven each Sunday, and Suzanne poured the coffee at the head of a long table that ran the length of the room, and at which everyone sat.

She was not surprised at Geoff's

He took her in his arms and kissed her.

As it added, had just happened, knowing that he had a winning invitation. The other man had been specially invited.

Dressing that Sunday morning, asking Duncan Hale to present him, he was quite likely to ask anyone who caught his fancy, which sometimes led to amusing situations. A power in the land, Geoffrey Atwood was a big enough man to do as he pleased, and one Sunday at his table had been seated the man who had been the center of one of the most sensational trials ever held in the state, and the judge who had tried him. The judge, Suzanne chose her dull blue frock carefully. She was eager to look her best; eager that Duncan Hale should not think her less attractive than he had in the old days, two years ago. But she was equally eager to show him that she meant what she had said about Geoffrey—that she would be true to her husband in every look and thought, if it broke her heart.

Her heart seemed to pound in her throat as Duncan Hale came into the dining-room. She greeted him quietly, but it seemed to her that nobody who stood near could fail to read the message in his eyes. It was like a beacon fire, announcing his love. She turned to one of Geoffrey's nephews, who was at her elbow.

"Introduce Lieutenant Hale to some of the girls, Larry—the prettiest ones," she said, pretending to devote most of her attention to the coffee pot that a servant had just set before her.

"Oh, I'll stay here with you, if you don't mind," Duncan remarked lightly. "We can talk over old times between cups of coffee."

"Suzanne, I hear that Geoff may run for Governor—is it true?" asked Mrs. Haynes, drifting over to her side. "He'd get it, of course; everybody would vote for him."

"No sugar in mine, Mrs. Atwood, just cream," was old Judge Graham. Suzanne gave him a friendly smile with his coffee.

"Suzanne, can't I see you alone?" asked Hale, bending over her as they were left alone for a moment. "This is dreadful, this mob. And there are a few things I've got to tell you."

"I don't see how it can be managed," she told him. "And the things don't matter now, do they?"

"They matter more than ever now," he answered. "I've arranged an interview in spite of her. Everyone was going on to the country club, Geoffrey had asked Hale to go, and somehow Hale had managed so that he and Suzanne were to go alone in a roadster."

"Don't turn here," he begged her,

Mrs. Whitfield Weds North Carolinian In Washington, D. C.

An announcement of interest to a wide circle of friends in Atlanta and Georgia is the marriage of Mrs. William Whitfield, of Atlanta, and Hon. William M. Person, of North Carolina, which took place at the Central Presbyterian church in Washington, D. C., on Saturday, March 29, at high noon, Dr. Taylor officiating.

Only a small group of close friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Person are distinguished representatives of prominent southern families. The bride is a handsome woman, and has a charming personality.

Mr. Person is a leading lawyer of North Carolina who has always been active in state affairs.

Hon. and Mrs. Person left immediately for New York and other eastern cities. Upon their return they will reside in Raleigh.

as they reached a hilltop overlooking the club house, and she swung her arms out to the view.

"All right, then, you needn't," he answered grimly. "I've been thinking of you for two years, wanting to write you and beg you to forgive me as I wouldn't beg you to that day we quarreled. I'll never give you up, Suzanne. I've spent a ghastly two years away from you, working for an appointment that would give me something to offer you. I've got it now. I'm to be military attaché to our ambassador at one of the foreign courts. I came back to ask you to marry me and go with me. I'll turn down that appointment, resign my commission if I have to, and stay right here till you ask Atwood to release you from your marriage to him, and marry me. You belong to me, Suzanne."

"I don't. I'll never do that, never," she exclaimed.

"Yes, you will! you can't help yourself. I tell you, you're mine. You always have been."

And bending over her, he took her in his arms and kissed her.

Jane Hedden Hat Pattern

No. 8-827.

Long petals of georgette are made on the crown and brim of model 8-827, giving an unusual and soft effect to an otherwise tailored hat. White petals on a black straw cloth or fabric hat, or any two contrasting colors are effective. Brown and cocoa, beige on sand, jade on Russian green, or coral on black are a few of the possibilities. The facing may match the long petals in color and material or be of straw braid.

MATERIAL REQUIRED.

One soft pressed crown, 1 cap lining, 3 1/2 yards brace wire, 1 1/2 yard elastic net or buckram, 1 1/2 yard 3/4 inch silk, 1 1/4 yard georgette on the bias, 5 yards hemp stripping, 1 teal hemp plateau, Angora yarn.

HAT PATTERN ORDER.

This order will bring you pattern and working instructions for making hat illustrated above. Fill in name and address, enclose 25 cents in stamps, postal note or coins—address Hat Pattern Department, Atlanta Constitution.

Mrs. R. L. Turman Will Preside at League Meeting

Mrs. R. L. Turman will preside at the meeting to be held under the auspices of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, on Friday, at 3:30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce building.

This meeting is the first in the series of educational meetings, open to the public, free of charge, that the league is putting on with the view of giving the Atlanta public the opportunity of becoming informed upon matters of civic importance and interest.

Since it is the policy of the League of Women Voters to give both sides to every question, fairly and impartially, in order that Atlantans may have some source of reliable information concerning all angles of any issue, there will be speakers for and against two important questions, at the meeting. Charles Wilkins will give a talk in favor of the merger of the city and county school governments. Dr. E. L. Awtry will speak against this plan. The problem will be faced squarely, arguments given for and against, leaving the individual to choose for himself after becoming better informed on both sides. James R. Bachman will make a talk in favor of the tax increase, and Frank Weldon will speak against it. Attendance at this meeting is not by any means limited to women or to members of the league. Atlanta men and women are welcome. The educational meetings are for the benefit of those of us who are wise enough to realize the lack of information on various subjects.

Mrs. M. D. Farnham, Mrs. George Turner and Mrs. Barrett will usher. Everyone will be looked after.

The league's books, "Studies in Citizenship for Women in Georgia," will be in charge of Mrs. W. B. Carlton and Mrs. James Thornton. Mrs. Turman, who edited the book, is in charge of the meeting, and it will be both pleasurable and profitable for those who have not met Mrs. Turman to do so at this time, and for those who have not procured one of her invaluable books to take advantage of this opportunity.

Mrs. Hancock To Lecture

On Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock Mrs. Marie Louise Hancock will lecture to astrology students on "The Significance of 1925," reviewing the article in "The Herald of the Star" by the eminent astrologer, Rene Seneville.

In the history of the world, there are certain periods that are marked as more important than others, owing to the fact that these years are the turning points in a cycle, or the beginning of a new order of things, in some department of life. These periods show forth in the positions of the planets, and according to Rene Seneville, the years 1925 will mark the beginning of a new cycle.

The lecture is free and will be held at 313 Grand Theater building. The public is invited.

BODY OF MISS HOWARD TAKEN TO WASHINGTON

Funeral services for Miss Emma Howard, who died Monday at the home of Mrs. Ophelia Daniels, 49 Gordon street, were held Tuesday afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole. The body will be taken to Washington, Ga., today.

Miss Howard is survived by two brothers, Henry and William Howard, and five nephews, Fuller E. Callaway, of LaGrange; Judge E. H. Callaway, of Augusta, Ga.; R. M. Callaway, of Atlanta; and E. A. Callaway, of Washington, Ga.

Mrs. Wren McGuin Will Read Madam Butterfly in Costume

Mrs. Wren McGuin, who will read "Madam Butterfly" at 8 o'clock Friday evening, in the Sunday school room of St. Mark's Methodist church, is pictured in the costume in which she will read the delightful Japanese story.

Mrs. Wren McGuin will give a reading in costume Friday evening in the Sunday school room of St. Mark's Methodist church, the proceeds of the evening to be used towards furthering the charitable activities of the Young Women's Bible class of St. Mark's church. Mrs. McGuin will read "Madam Butterfly," in which she is at her best. She tells the gripping story simply and with a tenderness that shows she is in touch with her subject. Mrs. McGuin has read "Madam Butterfly" in many of the cities of the south with marked success and her audience on Friday evening will meet an artist in her work.

The Young Women's Bible class was organized in St. Mark's church six years ago by Mr. Lupo, who taught until his death, when the class practically disintegrated. Three years ago Mrs. Alonzo Richardson took charge of the class and since its reorganization the membership has increased to one hundred and seventy-five, with an average attendance of eighty-five.

The outstanding work of the class is the sponsoring of the thirty children in the tuberculosis hospital at Battle Hill. They are furnished clothing when needed, parties, games, balls, hats, including practically all of their amusements and most important of all, their yearly Christmas tree. No tree in any home is more beautiful or laden with more useful and pleasure-giving gifts.

The year round all needs of several families in the Wesley House district are met. The pet of the class for several years has been an elderly woman, blind for twenty years from cataract. Through this class she has been operated on and is now seeing, doing her own work, and making patchwork quilts.

They are keeping a 12-year-old boy in Asheville at the cost of $70 per month. He is soon to come home entirely recovered.

Last Christmas some simple gift was sent to every woman in the asylum at Milledgeville. Six entire families were supplied with both food and gifts—bringing actual happiness. One hundred and fifty people were helped by this class last Christmas. It is in constant touch with other agencies, and no call ever goes unheeded.

The cradle roll is quite large. Easter the babies will be christened. There is no feature dearer to the teacher than these "grandchildren." Just now there is being made up a beautiful and serviceable box for the dear little babe whose mother, a former student missionary, has adopted and named the babe.

This is a part of the service to mankind rendered by this splendid body of young women.

MRS. SARAH MARTIN TO REST IN OAKLAND

Funeral services at the chapel of Barclay & Brandon, with interment in Oakland cemetery, will be held today for Mrs. Sarah E. Martin, widow of A. W. Martin, former secretary of the Lamar & Rankin Drug company. Mrs. Martin died at her residence, 544 Spring street, a daughter, Mrs. J. L. Miller, and two grandchildren, Jack Miller and Grant Martin, survive her.

Though she is nearly 90 years of age, Mrs. John J. Hallenbeck, of Garden City, L. I., was arrested for violating the automobile speed laws in Miami, Fla.

WOMEN WHO LOOK OLD

In many cases there are not old in years, but because they are overworked, over-tired, nervous and run-down, ailments have developed peculiar to their sex and this condition makes them look years older than they actually are. Such women should consider the remarkable record held by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent canvass among over one hundred and twenty-one thousand women who had used it, ninety-eight out of every one hundred women reported benefit from its use. (adv.)

Don't Squeeze Black-Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from our drug store about two ounces of camellia powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition. Atlantan Writes About Life And Customs of North Africa

The following letter has been received from Mrs. Martha Goode Anderson, prominent Atlanta woman, who writes interestingly of her travels, the life, cities and customs of northern Africa. Mrs. Anderson sailed early last fall with a group of women peering at you through slits in their veils worn close over their faces, starry nights, the blue shining waters of the lovely Mediterranean, palm trees waving their soft fronds in the balmy air and dark-skinned men in baggy trousers, flowing bouffants and turbans crowning their heads. Not in the least does one picture before coming here an up-to-date, hustling city almost French in its characteristics with tram cars, automobiles, splendid hotels and all the modern conveniences of the twentieth century, and yet in the quarter of the city in which we are staying it is all of this against a background of Arabian character, entirely unchanged by the French conquest. Just a stone's throw from our Tunisia Palace hotel we step through an old, old Turkish gate, called the "Porte de France," into the old Arab quarter, without doubt one of the most interesting spots in all the world. Here the Arabs carry on their trades of weaving silk, making furniture, the queer Arab costumes, marvelous in their rich beauty of embroidery in gold and silver threads, jewelry making and all of the other hundred and one industries peculiar to their life and customs.

Making of Cherchias. "Never again despite (if you ever have) the little red hats which the Shermers wear at home, nothing is more interesting than the way in which they are made. Before being put on sale one of these little red 'cherchias' as they are called, passes through just forty-five hands before it is finally finished. The women in the harem, which still are plentiful enough here, knit them of soft and finest white wool made from sheep abounding in this country and which we saw by the thousands as we motored from town to town through the French cities of northern Africa. After the little cap is finished by the busy knitters it is taken to the particular shop for the next process. In its first state it is white and five times the size we see it on its destined wearer. In the shop rows of men sit with little brushes made from the stiff thistles abounding in the fields. The cap has first been soaked in warm water until it is shrunk to the size in which we see it and then brushed and brushed endlessly until it is as soft as rider down and as fluffy. Then on through all the other processes, dyed, steamed, polished, pressed, and finally (here in Tunisia) ornamented with a long, lovely black silk tassel. Underneath the 'cherchia' every good Mohammedan leaves a little tuft of hair standing on the top of his head and untouched by the barber. So, it is said, by this little tuft, Mohammed will pull him into heaven.

"Those of us who have been brought up in the south have enough superstitions. I am sure, to keep us forever worrying about some sign, good or bad, but our platitude in this direction is as nothing to that of the Arabs. In almost every doorway one sees the warning hand of Fatima, Mohammed's daughter, with its outstretched fingers to give good luck and protect the dwellers within from the 'evil eye.' Every one wears Fatima's hand, and horses and mules (and these abound) have the outstretched fingers somewhere about them. Even in the palace of the Bey, where we saw all of his wonderful carriages and splendid Arabian horses, Fatima's hand appeared on all the carriage covers. Just as we entered the palace courtyard the automobile of the Bey drove up for him to enter. Before he came a little pink and red carriage with soft silken shades tightly closed, and drawn and pushed by Arabian servants, entered the courtyard. We recognized by the royal insignia on the sides that some of the ladies of the harem had been out for an airing. As they were heavily veiled and the curtains were tightly drawn we could only imagine a beauty unseen.

"The Bey of Tunis is an old, old man, and his young wife, just married about two months ago, is only 18, we were told. As you know, Tunisia is now a French province ruled over by a French governor general and the key, each prince of the royal family receives an income from the government of 10,000 francs each month; each princess 14,000 francs. Twenty kilometers beyond Tunis lies the ancient, historic city of Carthage, now almost entirely a modern city, with little left of its ancient glory, and only its exquisite setting on the shores of the deep blue waters with purpling mountains across the Bay of Tunis to tell of its beauty. It so happened that we arrived at Carthage just as the 'White Brothers,' a Catholic order, were celebrating the annual fete of March 7, the day in the year 303 when Christian martyrs were thrown to the animals in the arena. The arena is now little more than a deep pit, with few traces left of the ancient one. Where were formerly the spectators' seats, a little chapel has been built and here music was said in the open air under the clearest light-blue sky, and attended by hundreds of devout Carthaginians and Tunisians.

Lovely Sidi-Bou-Said.

"Crowning the hill overlooking Carthage is a lovely Arab village, Sidi-Bou-Said, and the interior of two of these beautiful homes gave a startling contrast to those seen in Algiers. As a matter of fact, the Arabs in Tunis are more superior to those in Biskra, Algiers, Constantine, Setif and other cities. There are few beggars here, and for the most part, the Arabs are industrious and work hard. "It is wonderfully interesting to go flying through this picturesque historic land. Sailing across the Mediterranean from Marseilles to Algiers is an experience long to be remembered. At Biskra, down on the edge of the desert, we visited the enchanting 'Garden of Allah,' where 'Haji' told our fortunes in the sand, squatting on the ground under a huge palm tree, and we sat around, enchanted, forgetting time and distance. Biskra is now called the 'Nice' of Africa, and there one finds the languorous soft climate, lovely, lazy, restful life most welcome after strenuous visits in other cities less restful. Riding camels and seeing derelict stock herds, long pins in their cheeks and lips and ear fire and burn their naked bodies with flaming torches are things I will leave for others, while I will save for myself quiet moments under the starry skies with the palms waving their green fronds in gentle breezes and strange African flowers fill the air with faint, soft fragrance, and I can sit still and let the beauty and strangeness fill me with rest and wonder.

"Some of the unusual things we have had to eat are wild asparagus, hearts of artichokes, tea steeped in almond leaves, kous-kous, Arab coffee, black, and so sweet it is heavy and was made before our eyes in tiny brass cups with long, slender handles.

"We sail for Sicily Thursday after our visit to Kairwan, the sacred city next to Mecca. I shall be sorry to say goodbye to this picturesque quarter of our good round world with its wonders, modern and older than time can record. We shall land at Palermo and linger for a few days at fair Taormina, Siracusa and lovely Gela, before going on to Naples and sulky Vesuvius."

Since 1910 more than 41,000 women in Pennsylvania have abandoned housework for such varied fields as bricklaying, stone masonry, steeplecasing, cobbling, etc.

Snuggle Pup Frolic, No. 3

FROLIC NO. 3

MOTHER SNUGGLE'S FLEA TRAPS

Mother Snuggle had told Dumbell, Jr., time and time again not to play with the Bad-Bill-Ball children. You know Dumbell. As usual, he disobeyed. And what did he come home with but one of the most nervous fleas in Puptown riding on his back.

Now, Mother Snuggle always gives her pups a bath every night. But Dumbell felt so guilty that he sneaked off to bed without getting his tubbing.

As soon as he was fast asleep the flea, which had come home hidden in his coat pocket, slipped out on the front porch of Snuggle Inn and let out a loud howl.

And why did he howl? Because, dear children, and grownups, he was the leader of Puptown's fiercest flea-puck. And his howl was a command for his bravest followers to join him for the big feast at Snuggle Inn. The four flea-fest fleas that arrived first, he cautioned to walk on their tip toes and led them back inside.

Mother Snuggle Roused.

Each flea was assigned to a Snuggle Pup and told to go to it while the feasting was good. Along about three o'clock in the morning the noise from the scratching roused Mother Snuggle, who arose and hastened to rid her pups and home of these most unwelcome guests.

But scratch and bite and roll as they would, not a flea was to be caught. By this time it was morning and the Puptown stores were open. Putting on her hat, Mother Snuggle hurried to the hardware store and bought five flea traps.

Carefully baiting each one of these with a tiny piece of Whiffenpoof,

ALL CONTESTANTS TO GET PICTURES OF SNUGGLE PUP

Every boy and girl who sends in an answer to any Snuggle Pup Frolic will get the latest photo of Snuggle, himself, the original Snuggle Pup, on a neat little pin affix. This is the best picture Snuggle ever had of himself.

You don't have to be a winner to get this picture. Just everyone who sends in a completed frolic gets the picture. The ten best answers to the frolics will be awarded one full-sized, unbreakable, metal model of Dumbell, Jr., the dumbest and craziest of the whole Snuggle Pup family.

she set the traps in the middle of the parlor and oh, Boy, hot diggetty dog and two hot razzes, no more were these five traps set than the fleas were caught and the scratching was over.

But how were the five fleas caught, each in a separate trap? That is up to you to find out. Look at the drawing. Then read below the picture how to work out the puzzle and win a prize.

Today's Snuggle Prize.

Each flea, just hopping from the back of "Lucky," has a number. The trick is to trace the jumps as they hop from pup to pup, until they finally land in a trap. Each one has his own special trap and each number has to be traced to its particular circle in the center of the picture. When you are sure each one is in the right trap, enter the number of that particular flea in the circle where you have put him.

Then color up the bodies and the hats of the little pups and you are through.

First, to win a prize, all the fleas must be in the right traps. Then to the ten children who send in the most attractive color-ups, using water color or crayon, as you wish, there will be awarded one full size Snuggle Pup each.

This is Contest No. 3 of the Daily Snuggle Pup Series. When you have filled in the circles and colored up the pups, enclose it in an envelope addressed to Mother Snuggle, The Constitution and write "Contest No. 3" on outside of envelope. The answers must reach The Constitution not later than 6 p. m. Thursday.

Few Days' Delay
In Mailing Pups
Caused by Storm

Say, kids, the Snuggle Pups are in trouble. That's right—in deep trouble.

"You remember the stories that were sweeping all over the northern part of the country? Sure you do, for they happened only last week, but they happened just when the Snuggles were on their way to Atlanta.

When the Snuggles arrived at The Constitution office Sunday, Mother Snuggle didn't take a very good look at them, for they are such model pups—so good—she didn't think they could have happened to any harm. But they did.

When Mother Snuggle started looking through the hundreds and hundreds of letters that reached her between noon Monday and Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock, when the contest on the first color-up closed, she thought it might be a good idea to see about the pups.

Carefully she laid aside the excelsior in the first big box containing hundreds of pups, and she let out a shriek when Snuggle, himself, came to light. Instead of the spotless white Snuggle puppy should have been, here was a pup spotted and streaked here and there with brown.

Covered With Water.

What happened? Mother Snuggle's puppies just got covered with water in the storms they encountered on their way to Atlanta and the brown paper around them had rubbed against them making the streaks and spots. They weren't hurt, for the Pups are of metal, and nothing short of a box car falling on them would break them. Ordinarily, the water wouldn't have hurt them. They just shake water off like ducks; but these pups ran amuck, slap into a cloudburst, and the soaked brown paper spotted them.

Mother Snuggle decided that while the Pups were still good she didn't want the boys and girls of Atlanta, who are to win them, to have a single complaint, so she sent a wire to Daddy Dumbell Snuggle Pup to send a few hundred more. Now the new Snuggles are on their way and only a little delay in sending out prizes will result.

CRACKER REGULARS PLAY CLEVELAND HERE TODAY

Indians To Arrive in City This Morning; Other Squad Off On Tour of Carolinas

BY HENRY ALLEN.
Divided into different squads, the Crackers will play two games today. "Bert" Niehoff will lead the main squad against the Cleveland Indians in the feature game to be played at Spiller's field at 3 o'clock.

The other squad will swing into action against the Greenville club of the South Atlantic league in Greenville in the first game of the invasion of the Carolinas.

While the progress of the game in Greenville will be watched closely by the fans, particular interest is centered in the game here this afternoon when this speaker will lead his Cleveland Indians against the Crackers.

The Indians broke camp yesterday at Lakeland, Fla., and will arrive in the city early this morning in the very best of condition. There is no doubt but what Niehoff's crew will have to be on their toes to turn in a win.

This will be the second big league clash to be seen in action at Spiller's field during the spring training season. As the Crackers got off to an excellent start against the Detroit Tigers Saturday, no doubt an excellent season of fun will turn out to watch the affair.

Second Appearance Here.
This will also be the second appearance to the Crackers since their return from the Griffin training camp as the game with Baltimore was postponed on account of the cold weather.

But the weatherman has promised quite a rise in the temperature during today and everything should be in tip top shape for the game.

Just about the best news that has developed out of baseball headquarters in the past several days was the announcement that George Dumont, Cracker curve ball ace of 1923, had arrived in the city Monday from New Orleans and after a conference with President den Jack Corbett he signed for the season.

With addition of Dumont, the department of right-hand fingers on the "Crackers" squad is greatly strengthened.

Work on the Spiller's field park was pushed along at a lively rate both Monday and Tuesday and quite a bit of improvement has been made since last Saturday. The fans can be certain of being comfortably taken care of.

The squad was idle yesterday, on account of the weather but Manager Niehoff stated last night that the team will start a morning workout at Grand field before the game this afternoon.

Spates To Pitch.
Fred Spates, the young right hander secured from Albany, N. Y., is slated to start against Cleveland this afternoon with Ray Francis taking up the burden later in the afternoon.

The squad to make the tour of the Carolinas will leave this morning at 8 o'clock and play in Greenville this afternoon. They are in charge of Art Mueller, who will play first base while on the trip. Those making the trip are as follows: Catcher, Bass, leftie, pitchers, Miller, Sheppard, Taylor and the first base, Mueller, second base, Weichman; shortstop, Krehmer; third base, Wright; outfielders, Blackstock, Carter and Pauls.

From Greenville the squad will go to Spartanburg for a game Thursday and then to Charlotte to play Friday and Saturday. They will also play in Asheville Monday and Tuesday, returning here next Wednesday. It is expected that a good many of these players will be dropped off to different clubs in that league for further seasoning. A good many have shown plenty of stuff during the training camp but are not yet ready to play in the Southern league.

Ben Finkel will be missed in the outfield during the tour, so will Dutch Krehmer, but Mack Hillis is perfectly capable of holding down the shortstop position, during Krehmer's absence. In fact, there has been a merry little staged between them for the berth. The reason for both Finkel and Krehmer being taken on the tour is the fact that they played in the Sally league last season and were very popular. President Corbett was requested that they be brought on the trip.

Farm Youngster Out.
Cleveland, Ohio, April 1.—Red Leary, last year with Vicksburg, Cotton States league, is the first player dropped this season by the Cleveland Indians. Leary was farmed out to the Lakeland Florida State league, team, when the Indians departed for Atlanta today.

Greb Wants To Fight Stribling, Says Pegler

BILL TILDEN MARIST WINS 4-3 VICTORY OVER G. M. A. IN PREP OPENER

IS EASY WINNER

Augusta, Ga., April 1.—William Tilden, H., went into the semi-finals in the singles of the South Atlantic Tennis tournament here this afternoon by winning easily from Allen Behr, of New York city, 6-0, 6-2.

The first round of the ladies' singles was completed today, with Miss Carey, of New York, the favorite; Mrs. Chapin, Mrs. Bradley and Miss McGee all emerging victorious.

Tilden will meet Major in their semi-final round tomorrow and Rice will play Chapin Thursday afternoon.

Tiny Roberts in Final Training
"Tiny" Fred Roberts, Oglethorpe athlete who has turned fighter, is in the final stages of training for his first fight, which will be on April 7, at the old rally was far too weak to play the game out of the fire, as ninth inning scoring spree are expected to do. Wins, pitching for Boys' High, struck out 11 men, and although he allowed eight hits, it was the unfailing ability of his team mates to make errors when such mistakes occur.

Walker, on the mound for Decatur, pitched a good game, striking out some 12 men and holding opposing batters to five hits. The Purple made nine errors, and Decatur made only one blunder, and therein lies the story. The lack of the ability to hit in a pinch was another reason why the Atlanta nine failed to score more than one run. The outstanding star of the game was Anderson, second baseman for Decatur, who got a home run and a double out of four trips to the plate. McGee, first baseman for Decatur, also played good ball.

For Boys' High, the best work was done by Catcher Bill Merriman, first baseman Ford. This game should have been played in Atlanta, but since Boys' High had no suitable diamond, the game was moved out to Decatur.

JOHNNY WEISMULLER BREAKS OWN RECORD
Chicago, April 1.—Johnny Weismuller, of the Illinois Athletic club broke his own national A. A. U. record for the 220 yard free style event at the opening of the A. A. U. senior indoor swimming meet here tonight. His time was 2:15.45, 2.15 seconds faster than his old record.

Clearwater, Fla., April 1.—Branch Ricker, the manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, believes he has come to the end of his search for a catcher and will not have to use a lat boy for the job when summer comes, if it ever does.

Jacques Fournier, formerly of the Cardinals, now with the Dodgers, has been named to negotiate a deal involving three clubs, which would shift several other players and send Branch Ricker, the Phillies' catcher, to St. Louis.

It is understood that Brooklyn will trade Andy High, the infielder, and one of the superannuated Brooklyn catchers to St. Louis for Milton Stock, the third baseman. Then St. Louis would turn over the two Brooklyn players to Philadelphia for Henline.

Ricker recently feared that he would have to telephone for a Western Union messenger to do his catching as he had no men of his own for this department.

BY GORDON KEITH.
Playing despite the prevalence of uncomfortably out-of-season weather, the prep completed their opening day of the 21 schedule Tuesday with three more or less good ball games. Commercial has withdrawn and has not planned to enter a team this spring, but the Bluebirds were anxious for action and scheduled a last-minute battle with the Oglethorpe freshmen.

Tech High managed to keep from freezing long enough out at Almond park to trim the Fulton nine; Decatur, by administering a neat 3 to 1 defeat, and Marist won by a close call of 4 to 3 from G. M. A. The Purple freshmen had little trouble in winning the slugfest staged with the champions at Piedmont park, there being something like four home runs garnered off the deliveries of Garlington and Matsky, Bluebird hurlers.

Decatur Game Slow.
The Decatur-Boys' High game was a slow, uninteresting affair because of the lopsided score. Boys' High was not able to score until the ninth, the last half of it at that, but this old rally was far too weak to play the game out of the fire, as ninth inning scoring spree are expected to do. Wins, pitching for Boys' High, struck out 11 men, and although he allowed eight hits, it was the unfailing ability of his team mates to make errors when such mistakes occur.

Walker, on the mound for Decatur, pitched a good game, striking out some 12 men and holding opposing batters to five hits. The Purple made nine errors, and Decatur made only one blunder, and therein lies the story. The lack of the ability to hit in a pinch was another reason why the Atlanta nine failed to score more than one run. The outstanding star of the game was Anderson, second baseman for Decatur, who got a home run and a double out of four trips to the plate. McGee, first baseman for Decatur, also played good ball.

For Boys' High, the best work was done by Catcher Bill Merriman, first baseman Ford. This game should have been played in Atlanta, but since Boys' High had no suitable diamond, the game was moved out to Decatur.

It was a close ball game, and an interesting one, for Fulton surprised most of the fans with her snappy ball club and great fighting spirit.

Walter Hagen Retains Title
Pinehurst, N. C., April 1.—Walter Hagen, veteran Westchester-Biltmore professional, playing the best and most consistent golf of the tournament, today retained the north and south open golf championship with a score of 283 strokes for the 72 holes, two strokes to the good over Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J.

Wise Counsellor's Jockey Is Selected
Louisville, Ky., April 1.—Jockey Mack Garner has been selected to ride Wise Counsellor in the Kentucky Derby, it was announced today. Ward, crack 3-year-old, one of the main reliances of the west in the annual renewal of the classic, was given his first trial over a mile distance this year at Churchill Downs yesterday. He covered the distance in 1:48.25, under restraint.

IRISH LIGHTWEIGHT ON U. S. INVASION
New York, April 1.—Billy Gilmore, champion of the lightweight title of Ireland, arrived today for an American invasion. He expects to make his debut in a match at Philadelphia May 1, with either Eddie (Kid) Wagner or Nate Goldmann, of Philadelphia.

Hunter Enters Semi-Final Play
New York, April 1.—Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, today advanced to the semi-finals by defeating two opponents in the national men's indoor tennis championship. He eliminated Dr. Nier, of New York, 6-2, 6-2 in the third round and J. P. Nilsson, New York, 6-2, 6-1 in the fourth round.

An upset occurred in the opening round, when a close play won J. J. Steinkamp and G. French, Montclair, N. J., defeated F. M. Maloney and Harry Wiswell, New York 6-4, 7-5.

Gene Tunney Also Open To Proposal for Bout; Gibbons in Same Class off. Tunney has a left hook to the chin which he believes would fit into this scene very nicely.

Tommy Gibbons is a man of Stribling's class, too. He may be remembered as the one who fought Jack Dempsey 15 rounds at Shelby last summer. Ad Stone, the marine, from the Philadelphia navy yard, is a bit too new in the game and too light in the punch to fight Stribling, but that doesn't prevent him from wanting to.

In other words, all the light-heavyweights now want to fight Stribling because his next big match, probably in the open air, will be worth a fortune to his opponent, win or lose. And then, notwithstanding what he did to McTigue, who is not a great champion, Stribling still needs experience.

Greb Might Take Decision.
Greb probably would out-rush him, worry him, frantically take a decision from him.

Tunney is just as strong as Willie and as hard a puncher, but not as active. However, he is thoroughly experienced, takes no such reckless chances as Willie, and follows an advantage better.

Gibbons has not fought anyone but tenth-raters since he met Dempsey. It is hard to guess how good he may be today. In his elation over his defeat of the champion, Stribling will have to be reminded that Greb, Tunney and Gibbons probably would have defeated McTigue, too, if they had been in Willie's place.

White Sox Win From Giants
Jacksonville, Fla., April 1.—Poor pitching by both teams nerved a game which the Giants lost to the White Sox here Tuesday, by a score of 7 to 6. The offenders were Hughie McCullum, Ernie Maun, and Dennis Giehrin for the Giants, and Charlie Robertson and George Connolly for the Sox.

Crouse, young Sox catcher, batted well, driving in runs with two hits. Before the game, Claude Jonnard, giant pitcher, wrenched his left knee running for a fly ball and will be kept out of action for a few days.

The score: White Sox . . . 7 0 0 200 200—7 9 0 Giants . . . 6 0 0 0 100—6 10 1 Batteries: Robertson, Connolly and Crouse; McCullum, Maun, Giehrin and Snyder. Umpires, Klem and Holmes.

JACK SIGNS UP WITH MOVIES

Los Angeles, Cal., April 1.—Jack Dempsey signed a contract Monday with Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Motion Picture company, for a series of ten pictures for a total of $1,000,000 and announced that he had received an offer from Tex Rickard of $500,000 to fight in New York or New Jersey on Labor day.

In signing with Laemmle, Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, said he would accept Rickard's offer if no better proposition was made in the meantime.

Kappa Sigmas Win Cage Title
The Kappa Sigmas won the inter-fraternity basketball tournament yesterday by defeating the Phi Delta Theta, 11 to 7, in a spirited contest. By virtue of this victory, the Kappa Sigmas won a beautiful loving cup, donated each year by the Pan Hellenic council.

This is the second year that the Kappa Sigmas have won the basketball title. Last year, they defeated the Phi Delta Theta, 11 to 7, in the semi-final round, then the S. A. E. in the finals.

Dick Fair and Ed Merritt played good ball for the "Sigs." Dick's strength of the team considerably, and he made his height and knowledge of the game count heavily for the Sigs. Homer Carter was the bright star for the "Sigs."

Walter Hagen Retains Title
Pinehurst, N. C., April 1.—Walter Hagen, veteran Westchester-Biltmore professional, playing the best and most consistent golf of the tournament, today retained the north and south open golf championship with a score of 283 strokes for the 72 holes, two strokes to the good over Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J.

Wise Counsellor's Jockey Is Selected
Louisville, Ky., April 1.—Jockey Mack Garner has been selected to ride Wise Counsellor in the Kentucky Derby, it was announced today. Ward, crack 3-year-old, one of the main reliances of the west in the annual renewal of the classic, was given his first trial over a mile distance this year at Churchill Downs yesterday. He covered the distance in 1:48.25, under restraint.

IRISH LIGHTWEIGHT ON U. S. INVASION
New York, April 1.—Billy Gilmore, champion of the lightweight title of Ireland, arrived today for an American invasion. He expects to make his debut in a match at Philadelphia May 1, with either Eddie (Kid) Wagner or Nate Goldmann, of Philadelphia.

Hunter Enters Semi-Final Play
New York, April 1.—Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, today advanced to the semi-finals by defeating two opponents in the national men's indoor tennis championship. He eliminated Dr. Nier, of New York, 6-2, 6-2 in the third round and J. P. Nilsson, New York, 6-2, 6-1 in the fourth round.

An upset occurred in the opening round, when a close play won J. J. Steinkamp and G. French, Montclair, N. J., defeated F. M. Maloney and Harry Wiswell, New York 6-4, 7-5.

Here Is Something For Everybody and Everything For Somebody

DARTMOUTH HITS MERCER PITCHER FOR 74 VICTORY

BY JIMMY KERR.

Marion, Ga., April 1.—(Special.)—The Mercer University baseball team, with eight consecutive wins, this afternoon struck an unexpected snag in the shape of Coach Jeff Tresson's fast Dartmouth University aggregation, bowing to the New Hampshire team in the time of 7 to 4.

The defeat of Mercer was brought about by the terrific swarming power of the visitors, who eluded Mercer's star hurler, Tom Hamilton, for 10 hits in seven innings. The easterners presented perfectly balanced defense, it being nearly impossible to get a ball through the infield when Mercer was stationed on the bases. Aside from catcher Morgan and Crook Smith, the Baptist school was defeated at a loss to solve the mystery of Mr. Tresson's tactics, although he did not seem to have much stuff on the ball. The Mercer stars could not connect with regularity, especially in the ninth.

Brilliant Fielding.—Austin, Dartmouth right earler, came through with a scintillating catch in the second inning when he went head on into the ball and took Poppe's hard line drive on the run. Harris also came in for the share of the spotlight by climbing on top of the Mercer landstand and taking Poppe's high foul fly while the crowd yelled in great glee.

The defeat of Mercer today came as a surprise to the Orange and Black supporters, who had come to believe the team was invincible. Mercer played without the services of Pinkston, second sacker, who is out of the game with bumps and strains, pitcher, and a second left back.

Meet Again Today.—The two squads will meet again Wednesday afternoon in the second game of the series with Dartmouth, favored to come through on top of the heap. Morgan eluded a homer and double today, while Thurston slugged two singles and a home run in five trips. Leon, Dartmouth hurler, got a mighty single, the ball soaring clear to the fence in center field. The hit was scheduled for the victory, but Leon failed to touch first and traveled back to the initial sack being held to a single.

The Box Score.—

A Habitual Glance Banishes The Worried Look

A daily habit of glancing at the myriad opportunities which come to light in the A-B-C Classified Section of The Constitution will permanently erase all traces of worry from your features.

You don't need to scowl and tell yourself that there isn't a good position open for you—that there isn't a decent vacant room in town—that all the best workmen have jobs—any of these little annoying things.

Atlas carried around the world on his shoulders because he had to. That was all there was to it. But you can place your burdens upon the A-B-C Classified Ads at any time.

These little ads will tell you where to get a good position or a room or a man to work for you—as well as many other things which you are continually seeking.

Read the classified ads habitually—and make your life a whole lot easier!
